NAGEL TELLS OF RUMELY'S EFFORTS TO GET BUSCH AID

St. Louisan Testifies He Wrote to Mrs. Busch in Germany Outlining Project for New York Paper.

DR. ALBERT CAME HERE FOR INTERVIEW

German Agent Said Mrs. Busch Was Willing to Enter Deal, but Nagel Found This Was Not So.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Dr. Edward A. Rumely concluded his testimony in his own behalf today in the United States District Court before Judge William I. Grubb and a jury. He is charged, with Norvin Lindheim and S. Walter Kaufman, with conspiring to withhold information of the alleged purchase of the Evening Mail by German interests from the Alien Property Custodian.

Charles Nagel of St. Louis, who served as Secretary of Commerce and Labor in President Taft's Cabinet, was a witness for the defense. He told of meeting Dr. Rumely in Chicago, where the defendant laid before him a plan to acquire a newspaper in New York that would be unbiased in its publication of war news. At that time, said Nagel, Dr. Rumely explained to him Germany's advanced industrial and agricultural policies, saying he intended to play up the high ideals embodied in the German methods. "I told him I could not help him financially," the witness said, "but I was deeply impressed with his plan."

The name of Augustus Busch came up during the interview. "Mr. Nagel continued, 'and I told him in my judgment Mr. Busch would not subscribe to stock in the paper.'

"Mrs. Adolphus Busch had then gone abroad," Dr. Rumely asked me to communicate with her. I followed out his request."

Excerpts from the letter sent to Mrs. Busch by Nagel stated that false reports on conditions in Germany were creating prejudice in the New York newspapers. He told of learning that an option could be secured for the purchase of a New York daily and asked Mrs. Busch to subscribe to its stock.

"The idea is not to have a German paper," the letter concluded, "but an American newspaper that will publish the truth and nothing but the truth."

This letter was sent to Berlin but never reached Mrs. Busch. Mr. Nagel also told of meeting Dr. Rumely in 1916, but at that interview nothing was mentioned about the Evening Mail.

"Nagel testified to having met Dr. Heinrich Albert, the German fiscal agent in St. Louis in December, 1916, after Dr. Albert had requested an interview."

In his account of this interview Mr. Nagel said that Dr. Albert asked him to interest Mrs. Busch in making large investments in the Evening Mail, saying that he had learned through S. Walter Kaufman, who had married Mrs. Hermann Siencken, the American coffee merchant in Germany, that Mrs. Busch would be likely to purchase stock in the paper. Later on Nagel went to New York, he said, in order to investigate for himself Siencken's statement about Mrs. Busch, and came to the conclusion that there was no basis for such a statement.

MASH SEIZED, THREE ARRESTED, IN COUNTY

Sheriff and Deputies Raid House at Lemay Ferry and Forder Roads.

Three men were arrested and parts of a still, two barrels of mash, 107 empty barrels and 8000 pounds of corn sugar were seized when Sheriff Bopp of St. Louis County and two deputies raided today a two-story frame house at Lemay Ferry and Forder roads, in the southern part of St. Louis County.

The men arrested were August Gierfort, a farmer, living at Telegraph and Forder roads, and Vico Injalza and Joe Buzoto of 1117 North Third street, St. Louis. A fourth man, who is known, is being sought by the Sheriff.

The raid was the result of information that a still was being operated in the house. The three men were found in the cellar placing props under the floor to strengthen it. The equipment seized included two small stoves and a copper oven, but there was no still. The two barrels of mash and the empty barrels and sugar, in 80 100-pound sacks, were on the first floor. No whiskey was found. About 1000 feet of pipe had been laid to a creek and a motor installed to pump water to the house.

Buzoto said that Gierfort sent for him and Injalza to work for him, but did not tell them what kind of work they were to do. The men were picked up at Clayton and the seized property was stored there.

JUDGE LANDWEHR'S LIST USED IN REJECTION OF BONDSMEN

Data Showed John Kelly Already on Bonds Totalling $101,000 While Property Was Worth Only $14,000.

The first judicial cognizance of the list of bondsmen and their qualifications prepared by Judge Landwehr of the Criminal Court was taken by Judge Ittner in Police Court today when he refused to accept John Kelly on four appeal bonds aggregating $175.

Judge Ittner said that the list furnished by Judge Landwehr showed that Kelly was on bonds aggregating $101,000 and the Assessor's record showed that the assessed valuation of his realty holdings was only $14,000. "In future," he said, "I shall not accept bondsmen who are on bonds to a greater value than that of the property they own." Police Court Judge Mix also announced that he would follow the policy outlined by Judge Ittner.

Joseph Seidel also was rejected as a bondsman by Judge Ittner today on the ground that one of his bonds had been forfeited and a judgment for the amount of the bond had not been satisfied.

SENATORS DECIDE TAX RELIEF IS IMPRACTICABLE AT PRESENT

Members of Finance Committee Say Legislation Cannot Be Passed at This Session.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Income tax relief legislation requested by business interests is impracticable at this session of Congress, Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee decided today at an informal conference.

This decision is in line with a similar one by the Republicans of the House Ways and Means Committee and it was said, virtually closes the door to tax revision legislation during the present session.

The Treasury's condition as outlined by Secretary Houston, Republican Senator, said, made impossible the tax concessions urged.

22-1-2 PER CENT CUT IN WAGES FORECAST BY TEXTILE MAKERS

Prediction in Statement After Conference of Representatives of Three-Fourths of New England Mills.

INDUSTRY EMPLOYS 300,000 PERSONS

Manufacturers Declare Reduction Is Necessary With Market Stagnant From Lack of Buying.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—A wage reduction of 22 1/2 per cent. in textile mills in New England and New York State was forecast today in a statement issued after a conference of textile manufacturers.

Approximately 75 per cent of the industry in this section, representing makers of both cotton and woolen products, was represented at the conference. The industry employs 300,000 persons.

Such a reduction, according to statement, would bring the wage schedules back approximately to the figures that existed a year ago, and would leave the wage standards generally more than double those of 1915.

Cut Necessary, It Is Said.

The present stagnant condition of the textile industry made consideration of a wage reduction necessary, it was stated. After explaining that all sections of New England, as well as New York State, were represented by the manufacturers who took part in the conference, the statement said:

"It is evident from what has transpired in the past few months that there has been an insistent and compelling demand on the part of the public that the cost of living should be lessened by a readjustment of prices. This demand is country-wide, and it becomes the duty of all interested in industries which affect immediately the cost of living give serious consideration to the subject."

"Manufacturers have been reluctant to make any radical changes in wages because of its effect at a time when there has seemed to be so little willingness on the part of the retailer to do business on a local basis of price. But conditions have recently come about whereby this situation has been materially affected, and prices of articles entering into the cost of living have been reduced to a considerable extent."

"Now that the process of readjustment has operated in the wage earners' favor, and living costs are still further to be lessened as the present low prices of raw materials are reflected in retail costs, the manufacturers can properly take some action to lessen the labor cost involved in production."

"The refusal of buyers to purchase goods for the past four or five months on a high basis of cost has led to a stagnation of the markets upon which the manufacturers depend so that many of the textile mills in New England have been obliged to shut down; many more are working on short time, and unless something is done to remedy the conditions, unemployment will be increased and continue."

"Therefore it becomes the duty of manufacturers to consider means of providing stabilization so that merchants may be in a position to order goods without fear of further decline."

"It is obvious that no one will buy the product of the mills until the various factors entering into the cost of production have been reduced to a point which represents to the purchaser a safe basis for doing business."

"In order to stabilize conditions it is necessary that there should be some wage reduction. The textile manufacturers have given careful consideration to every phase of this situation, and have taken into account all possible methods of bringing about conditions whereby their plants may be operated without any change in the wage scale, but they find that this is impossible."

"Accordingly, it has been suggested that a reduction of 22 1/2 per cent will aid materially in stabilizing the market. This will approximately re-establish the wage schedule of November, 1919, and will leave wages in the industries more than double the wages of 1915."

"If this reduction is made, it is hoped that merchants will feel that the factor of labor cost as well as raw materials have been so adjusted that they will feel secure in placing their orders."

"It is hoped that the public will respond to this suggestion, and that manufacturers will be able to go on."

SAYS HE PAID TO AVOID ARREST FOR HAVING ALCOHOL

Chief O'Brien to Submit Reports to Board on Statement by Grocer and Saloon Man.

POLICE CAPTAIN'S STORY OF AFFAIR

Policeman Is Under Suspension, but He Denies Having Any Knowledge of the Incident.

By the Associated Press.

Chief of Police O'Brien will submit to the Board of Police Commissioners tomorrow reports from Capt. William Tierney and Mortecore Policeman John Brante of the Laclede Avenue District, concerning a statement by Santino Elice, part owner of a grocery, meat market and saloon at Jefferson avenue and Randolph street, that he paid $500 to one of three men who threatened to arrest him on a charge of having alcohol in his possession. Policeman Brante is under suspension, although he denies any knowledge of the incident.

Capt. Tierney has reported to Chief O'Brien that last Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock three men got out of a Ford touring car and entered the grocery department of Elice's store and called for Elice. Miss Gussie Elice, a daughter of the proprietor, was behind the grocery counter and informed the men that her father was not in.

"I know where to find him," said one of the men, according to Capt. Tierney's report, and he went to a back door, from which an outside porch leads to the living apartments of Elice on the second floor.

The following account of what transpired was given to the Post-Dispatch today by Capt. Tierney as it had been related to him by Elice:

As the man started up the stairs he met Elice coming down with a five-gallon can. He stopped Elice and the can from him, removed the stopper, smelled the contents, then inserted his finger and after withdrawing it, tasted it.

"You've got the hot stuff there," he said to Elice, "and you may consider yourself under arrest. I'll have to take you to the station."

Elice protested and the man said, "Well, let me have $1000."

Elice said he did not have that much, whereupon the other said, "If I arrest you it will cost you at least $500 to hire a lawyer."

Elice withdrew a roll of bills from his pocket and counted out $300. The man said that was not enough and told Elice to get the rest from the store. He then accompanied Elice to the grocery, where Elice took money from the safe and cash register to make up the balance of the $500 and handed the money to the man.

Meantime one of the other two men had gone to the back door and when he saw George Isenring of 2429 Cornwell street, a friend of Elice, in the back yard, he demanded to see the man's authority and the latter displayed a badge which he took from his trousers pocket.

When Elice had given the first man the $500, the latter took the can containing alcohol and directed his companions to follow him. They got into the automobile and drove south on Jefferson avenue.

Capt. Tierney learned of the incident last Monday and summoned Elice, his two daughters, Gussie and Rosine, and sending to the Laclede Police Station. He said that they related the details of the incident and that Miss Gussie Elice told him that she believed she had recognized the man who took the money from her.

Makes Emphatic Denial. Tuesday at 3 p. m. Capt. Tierney had both platoons of the motor cycle squad of his district at the police station for inspection. Elice, his two daughters and Isenring also were present and pointed out Policeman Brante as the man who, they said, had taken the money. Policeman Brante emphatically denied the charge.

When the matter was reported to Chief O'Brien he ordered Brante's suspension and told Capt. Tierney to get affidavits from the witnesses. Tierney told the witnesses to be at his office this morning. When they failed to appear he called at the store an interviewed Elice. The latter said that he had concluded to drop the proceeding and refused to make an affidavit. He said that he possibly was mistaken in identifying Brante.

FORISTEL AND KOELN NAME SLATE FOR POLICE BOARD

It Is Understood Among Republicans That Hyde Will Follow Suggestions of Two Who Backed Him.

COL. GEO. B. HUNTER CHOICE FOR HEAD

Benjamin Gratz and F. H. Kreismann Also on List—Recommendations Also for Election Commissioners.

By the Associated Press.

Edward W. Foristel today said that he and Edmond Koeln, City Collector, had prepared a list of recommendations to Governor-elect Hyde for appointments as members of the Boards of Police and Election Commissioners in St. Louis.

It is understood among Republican politicians that the Governor-elect will make his selections from the list submitted to him by Foristel and Koeln, and it is not improbable that when the actual time for making the appointments comes they will narrow the list to the exact men they expect to have appointed.

While Hyde repeatedly stated during the campaign that he had made no promises, the politicians point to the fact that his political debt to Foristel is of a character which Governor-elect Hyde seldom fails to pay. When he had no other supporter of influence in St. Louis, Foristel went to his aid and commanded the support of all the so-called Koeln wards for him.

For Police Commissioners. Foristel said the men he and Koeln had decided to recommend for Police Commissioners were: Col. George B. Hunter, former commandant of Jefferson Barracks, retired.

H. J. Hirsch, Agent for Building at 4600 Delmar Boulevard, Defendant in Case.

H. J. Hirsch, 415 International Life Building, was fined $50 in the Police Court today on a charge of violating the city ordinance which requires that during the winter season apartment houses must have a heat temperature of 70 degrees Fahrenheit between 7 a. m. and 10:30 p. m.

The apartment house referred to in the information is at 4600 Delmar boulevard, and Hirsch was designated as agent for the property.

The information was originally filed against Henri Chouteau, president of the company which operates the International Life Building, but was dismissed on his statement that he was not the owner of record of the property.

Later an amended information was filed, alleging that Chouteau was the manager and Hirsch agent of the apartment house. The charge as to Chouteau was dismissed when it was shown that Hirsch had charge of the apartment house. Hirsch appealed.

Proposal From Head of Sinn Fein Army Taken to Lloyd George

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 9. PROSPECTS of an Irish truce, which last night were generally regarded as having receded almost out of sight, have been revived, according to a late edition of the Daily Mail, as a result of a private interview between Mr. Patrick Joseph Clune, Bishop of Perth, and Premier Lloyd George yesterday. The Archbishop, the newspaper declared, conveyed to Lloyd George what, in effect, was a message from Michael Collins, commander of the Sinn Fein army.

The Daily Mail quotes the Premier as saying: "It may definitely be stated that prospects for settlement are much brighter than they appear on the surface."

13 UNION PIANO AND ORGAN WORKERS TO OPERATE FACTORY

Say They Will Sell Products From 20 to 25 Per Cent Below Present Market Price.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—A piano, organ and talking machine factory, union-owned, organized and operated is to be opened here Dec. 26, according to an announcement today by N. O. Olson, president of the new company. It is believed that it is the first concern of this kind to be organized in the city.

Thirteen members of the Piano and Organ Workers' Union, who say they were locked out at a local piano manufacturing company's plant two months ago because of labor differences, are the organizers of the company. According to President Olson, $50,000 has been subscribed as the working capital.

During the first month of operation the organizers will draw no pay, but after that time they will receive 50 cents an hour, and will work 44 hours a week. If other employees are hired they will receive a like wage. Dividends on holdings will be turned back to the company for some time, it has been agreed by members.

"We shall make a specialty of selling to labor," President Olson said, "our products will sell from 20 to 25 per cent below the present market price."

Charles Dodd, president of the Piano and Organ Workers' Association of America, is secretary-treasurer of the company.

MRS. MACSWINEY SAYS IRELAND WILL KEEP UP FIGHT TILL RECOGNIZED

FIRST WOMAN IS PICKED FOR DEPUTY SHERIFF

Miss Fay Johnston, Named by Supply Commissioner Thomas, to Be Offered Post by Mohrstadt.

Miss Fay Johnston of 5125 Kensington avenue was named today by Supply Commissioner Joseph B. Thomas, Republican city committee man for the Twenty-eighth Ward, as one of the four or more women who will be recommended to Charles E. Mohrstadt, who will become Sheriff Jan. 1, for appointment as Deputy Sheriff. Mohrstadt announced previously that he would appoint at least four women deputies, and had asked Thomas to name the first of them, so it is believed that Miss Johnston will get the appointment if she wishes it.

Thomas said this afternoon that he had spoken with Miss Johnston by telephone, and believed she would accept the appointment. He said he was not personally acquainted with her, and that Mrs. C. W. Swingley, chairman of the Republican women's organization in the ward, recommended Miss Johnston to him.

Is Ward G. O. P. Secretary. Miss Johnston is the daughter of Mrs. Sylvester Johnston, her father being a salesman for a downtown jewelry store. She was engaged, in wartime, in social service work with the home service department of the Red Cross. She is secretary of the ward women's Republican organization, and is precinct chairman for her precinct, the Third.

Mohrstadt, in announcing his purpose to name the appointments, said two of the appointees would be detailed to work as courtroom bailiffs, one probably in the Probate Court and one in the Juvenile Court. The others will be service deputies, and the two women bailiffs, after their courtroom work is over each day, will be expected to help in service legal papers. It is not his intention that any woman deputy shall have anything to do with handling adult criminals.

Duties of Deputy Sheriffs. The women's organization of Republicans asked for the appointment of 20 women, according to Mohrstadt, but this was more than he felt he could give to them, inasmuch as his total staff will consist of approximately only 55 deputies.

In courtroom bailiffs handle a gavel to preserve order in court. They also are the ones who give the cry of "Oyez, oyez!" on the convening and adjourning of court. Other duties performed by them are to call off the names of jurors and take charge of a jury when it has retired to consider a case. Service deputies serve jury summons and all writs issued by the court, including the service of suits. The present pay of a courtroom deputy or bailiff is $112 a month. A service deputy receives $100 a month. Deputy Sheriffs carry revolvers.

In regard to deputies now serving under Sheriff Weinbrenner, also a Republican, the new Sheriff said he did not know how many he would retain. All things being equal, it would be a difficult matter for him to turn out one Republican to give another Republican a job. However, he said he would not forget his friends.

Testifies Women Prefer Starvation to Submission to England and Declares There Is Distress in Land.

TELLS LIFE STORY OF LATE LORD MAYOR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Proposals in Ireland of an Irish republic are resolved "that England shall have no peace; that the world will have no peace until our republic is recognized," Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, declared today before the commission of the Committee of One Hundred investigating conditions in Ireland.

Mrs. MacSwiney said material relief for her countrymen was necessary for many were starving. "But what we want more," she added, "is our freedom. We want England out. I think the people of Ireland would choose freedom and our republic, rather than food, if they were forced to choose between them."

The women of Ireland, she said, are organized as well as the men, and their attitude is one of solidarity. "The women of Ireland have steely themselves to meet all torment," she declared. "The women of Ireland seldom weep now."

Tells Husband's Life Story. The life story of the late Lord Mayor was told by Mrs. MacSwiney. Her accounts of the numerous arrests of her husband, his efforts on behalf of a free Irish nation, and the actions of the British Government in attempting to "throttle Irish development" were punctuated alternately by applause and sob.

Mrs. MacSwiney told of her marriage to the late Lord Mayor in England in 1917, just after her husband had been released from one of many prison terms. She related how their only baby was born while his father was in jail in Belfast and how she daily carried the child to visit the father in prison.

Mrs. MacSwiney recounted the arrest on Aug. 12, 1920, and the beginning of the last hunger strike. Her husband, she said, was charged with having had a code used by the police, and she asserted that this was proper because of his position as Lord Mayor. She was present at the trial and said the Lord Mayor told her then of his intention to continue on hunger strike. She became convinced then, she declared, that he would die of starvation unless the British Government granted his release.

Proud of Husband's Courage. "After my husband made his speech at the trial," she continued, "I guess I became resigned; accustomed to what the future was to bring. The shock came first. It came harder on me then. After that I was reconciled and I was proud of his courage."

As hunger wore down the Lord Mayor's strength, Mrs. MacSwiney said, "he absolutely radiated peace and contentment."

"I knew my husband was happy," she declared, "and I never, never, would interfere with my husband in a matter of conscience. It was his choice. It was the decision of his spirit."

Her husband exacted a promise from her, Mrs. MacSwiney said, that she would not insist that he take food. The prison officials, however, said they would not employ forced feeding until the prisoner became unconscious. Mrs. MacSwiney declared. Accordingly, five days before the Lord Mayor died, the prison authorities began feeding him, and continued to do so until his death, she asserted.

Mrs. MacSwiney gave a vivid recital of her experiences with the British officials and charged that the British Home Office had spread propaganda to the effect

COMPROMISE AT GENEVA VICTORY FOR CANADIANS

League Delegates Decide Not to Appoint Bodies on Transit and Finance After Objections Are Heard.

HEALTH COMMISSION TO BE ORGANIZED

Delegates, Weary of Protracted Debate, Talk of Going Home—Next Week May See Adjournment.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Dec. 9.—Proposed organizations on finance and transit under the League of Nations, which were considered yesterday by the assembly, have been abandoned as the result of the compromise reached at midnight last night by prominent delegates to the assembly meeting here.

N. W. Rowell of Canada, Gabriel Hanotaux of France, Mr. Millet of Australia, Dr. Gaston da Cunha of Brazil, and Lord Robert Cecil, representative of South Africa, were present at the conference which resulted in this compromise. All are members of the Committee on Technical Organizations.

The existing international health organization will continue its work, and will come under the supervision of the league.

This compromise is a victory for the Canadian delegation, which yesterday opposed the proposition that the assembly recommend to the governments the establishment under the auspices of the league of three new organizations, finance, transit and health, with annual conferences on the subjects.

Raw Materials Discussed.
The question of the distribution of raw materials was brought up again at this morning's assembly session by Signor Schanzer of Italy, during debate upon the formation of an economic commission. The Italian delegate said he had entire confidence that the league would bring about economic as well as political justice through giving all countries access to the natural resources of the world. He declared it was not the Italian viewpoint that the interior affairs of any country should be interfered with, but it was desired that artificial economic barriers be broken down.

President Hymans intervened to point out that the assembly had spent two entire mornings on a single chapter of a technical report, and he pleaded with the speakers to cut their remarks short.

N. W. Rowell, of Canada, and Gustav Ador, of Switzerland, agreed in the idea that the question of the distribution of raw materials should not be discussed by this assembly.

Rowell expressed himself as satisfied with the modifications made in the report of the Committee on Technical Organizations. The amended plan for the appointment of a temporary consultative financial commission was adopted by the assembly.

Debates Tire Delegates.
Some of the principal delegates, wearying of the protracted discussions and somewhat discouraged in their efforts to hasten the work of the assembly, are talking of going home. Mr. Viviani, who has been away from his law practice for nearly a month, said he would not stay longer than the end of this week. The general opinion, however, is that it will be impossible to finish before the end of next week, unless the debates are summarily shortened.

The strong opposition of the members of the "Little Entente" to the admission of Bulgaria into the League of Nations was materially weakened this morning by the receipt by the commission on the admission of new states of a report from Marshal Foch, stating that Bulgaria has fulfilled her treaty obligations better than any other enemy country.

Marshal Foch's report points out that Bulgarian disarmament has advanced further than that of any other enemy state, her army now consisting of 25,000 men, instead of 40,000, as contended by nations opposing her admission to the league.

Argentina's Stand Brings Bitter Controversy in Buenos Aires.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 9.—The question of the withdrawal of Argentina from the League of Nations assembly appears likely to become the subject of bitter political controversy. Predictions are made by some of the newspapers that the question will be an issue in the next presidential election, which occurs in March, 1922.

Various patriotic and civic organizations already are preparing movements for and against the Government's international policy. The radical party of Buenos Aires announces that it will hold great public demonstrations in front of Government House in support of President Trigueros. On the other hand, prominent Argentinians who during the war organized "The Association of Friends of France and the Allies" here called a meeting to protest against the President's policy.

EL PASO SHERIFF GETS WARRANT FOR CLARA SMITH

Authority for the Arrest of Woman Wanted in Hamon Case Reported Sent From Ardmore, Ok.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 9.—Sheriff Orndorff of El Paso has received a warrant from Ardmore, Ok., calling for the apprehension of Clara Smith, wanted in connection with the shooting of Jake Hamon at Ardmore, according to the woman's brother and father and the sheriff's office.

The father and son said they expected Clara would come to their home as soon as she learned of the warrant. They declared they did not know where she was, but that she was not far from El Paso, unless, without their knowledge, she had gone farther.

At 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night Clara Smith entered the home of her parents, 1119 East San Antonio street, according to the sheriff. She was not arrested, he said, because no warrant for her was held here.

Deputy Sheriff John Boone says Miss Smith was in Juarez Dec. 2. An investigation revealed that she probably crossed the international border on a 10-day tourist passport, after giving an assumed name. Boone immediately notified his superiors, who telegraphed the authorities at Ardmore. Nothing was heard from them until Monday, when they acknowledged receipt of the telegram, but did not send a warrant for her arrest.

On Dec. 5, Boone says, J. B. Smith and his father, J. L. Smith, left the residence on East San Antonio street in an automobile, taking with them

PRESIDENT ASKS FOR FUNDS TO AID STARVING CHINESE

Conditions in Several of the Famine-Stricken Provinces of That Country Declared to Be Appalling.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—President Wilson today called on the American people to contribute of their funds to relieve the "appalling" famine in China, resulting from distress in several of the provinces.

Thomas W. Lamont of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. was designated as chairman of the committee, and Acting Secretary Davis of the State Department as treasurer.

"A famine, alarming in its proportions, today holds in its grip several important provinces in China," said the President's appeal. "The crop failure is complete, and the present distress, which is great, is likely, before winter has run its course, to become appalling. In fact, our diplomatic and consular agents in China inform me that the loss resulting from death in distressing form may run into millions of souls. It is certain that the local Government and established organizations of relief are unable to cope with the magnitude of disaster which faces them."

Under the circumstances, relief to be effective should be started quickly. Once more an opportunity is offered to the American people to show that prompt and generous response with which they have invariably met the call of their brother nations in distress. To an unusual degree the Chinese people look to us for counsel and for effective friendship. Our churches, through their religious and medical missionaries, their schools and colleges, and our philanthropic foundations, have rendered China an incalculable benefit, which her people regard with gratitude and devotion to the United States. Therefore, not only in the name of humanity, but in that of the friendliness which we feel for a great people in distress, I venture to ask that our citizens shall, even though the task is giving is not to us, lend a light on, respond as they can to this distant but appealing cry for help.

"In order to be assured of the orderly collection of such donations, large or small, which may be offered, I have invited a nation-wide committee, whose names are attached hereto, to lend their aid to this matter. I have designated Mr. Thomas W. Lamont of New York City to act as chairman of this committee, and Mr. Norman Davis, Undersecretary of State, to act as treasurer."

"I realize that this call, added to those for the under-fed children of Eastern Europe and the afflicted peoples of the near East, and to the needs of our own country, makes heavy the demand upon the bounty of the nation. I am confident, however, and all these pleas will be answered in generous spirit."

The committee appointed by the President numbers 130, including 22 women. Besides Lamont and Undersecretary Davis, it includes Secretary of the Treasury Department, Mr. C. D. Igoe, and Mr. C. D. Igoe, former President Taft, Cardinal Gibbons, Charles Eliot, Frank A. Vanderbilt and Senator Capper of Kansas.

Festus J. Wade and Charles Nagel of St. Louis, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mrs. Margaret Anglin Hull, George Horace Lorimer and Samuel Gompers also are on the committee.

POLICE BOARD TO CONSIDER OFFER OF LEGION FOR MORROW

Lieut.-Col. Burkham Requested to Attend Meeting and Give Views on Assisting in Halting Crime.

President Mansour of the Police Board said today that the board has invited Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Burkham, chairman of the city Executive Committee of the American Legion, to meet the board members tomorrow to discuss means of getting the aid of the American Legion in suppressing crime in the city. The legion several days ago made a formal offer of its assistance.

When President Mansour was asked to comment upon the suggestion of Comptroller Nolte that a vigilance committee of 5000 citizens be formed to walk beats and endeavor to catch lawbreakers, he said he believed that the most promising proposition was that of the American Legion. He pointed out that great care would have to be exercised in choosing civilian policemen, and that he believed it would be simpler to select the right kind of men from the legion, where each candidate would have to receive the approval of his fellow members.

Points in Favor of Legion.
Moreover, he pointed out, in appointing such auxiliary officers, it would be desirable to get men accustomed to the use of firearms in emergencies, and thus avoid such accidents as might occur if excitable citizens were licensed to carry arms and act as policemen. He said the Police Commissioners had certain definite ideas along this line, but preferred not to forecast any course of action until after the conference with Burkham.

Mr. Kich, upon returning to the city after an absence of several days, said this morning that Nolte's suggestion "sounded like a good idea," but he didn't care to comment further upon it until he had heard what the Police Commissioners had to say. The mayor is an ex-officio member of the Police Board.

Chief of Police O'Brien said the matter was entirely in the hands of the Police Board. He called attention to the power of the board to order the existence of an emergency and to appoint as many emergency policemen as they see fit, as was done during the World's Fair. Such policemen would receive the salary of probationary patrolmen, $90 a month.

"In my opinion," said the chief, "no emergency exists. It is true that there is a good deal of robbery, but it is not out of control. As fast as a new crop of robbers spring up, we knock them down. The fact is that most of these holdups and burglaries are being committed by a lot of young fellows who are out of work."

Views of Chief O'Brien.
He referred to the case of two brothers who recently confessed perpetrating 17 robberies in three weeks, and the confession of three other men of the police force in holdups and three burglaries in a similar period of time.

"They were a crime wave all by themselves," said the chief. "We are arresting these fellows right along. We can't get them before they commit the crime, because most of them are men who have no criminal records. What the city needs is 1000 more regular policemen."

President Mansour was wholly in agreement with Chief O'Brien. "When you consider the number of men on the force, you will realize that the department is doing good work," he said.

"I think the movie is the chief factor in making these young highwaymen. If the newspapers could prevent the showing of pictures that make a hero out of the robber and put the crime officer in a ridiculous aspect, they would render a greater service than by criticizing our overworked police force."

Another Scheme Proposed.
Milton Napier, a member of the Junior Republican Club, said today that he had worked out a scheme for an auxiliary police force of citizens, and would submit it to the Police Board. His plan would provide for civilian patrolmen and officers, even including a chief, who would exercise all the powers of policemen. Officials of the Police Department were dubious about the success of such an experiment.

LITHUANIA ASKS FOR DELAY OF 8 MONTHS IN VILNA PLEBISCITE

TWO DUBLIN PUBLISHERS GET SIX MONTHS' SENTENCES

Proprietors of Freeman's Journal Convicted of Spreading False Reports and Also Are Fined $2500.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

DUBLIN, Dec. 9.—Heavy sentences have been imposed on Martin Fitzgerald and Hamilton Edwards, the two proprietors of the Freeman's Journal, on one of four counts, three of which are still to be passed upon. Besides a fine of $2500 (normally $2500), the proprietors are sentenced to six months' imprisonment each. Actions against British newspapers, even at the height of the war feeling, never resulted in sentences of such a character.

The sentences are the result of the publication of a statement of a man that it was locally believed black and tans were involved in an ambush leading to the death of one and the wounding of another Constable. They were convicted of "spreading a false report intended to cause disaffection."

During the last few months, according to a compilation made by one Dublin paper, 11 newspapers throughout the country have been bombed, wrecked or burned. They include the Munster News, Leitrim Observer, Nenagh Guardian, Kerry News, Kerry Liberator, Newcastle West Observer, Galway Express, Kerry Sentinel, West Meath Independent, Southern Star and the Eniscorthy Echo.

In one of its editorials recently the Freeman's Journal said: "Newspapers that try to act as a shield to the people that attempt to expose the outrages committed against the people, take their lives in their hands."

Military authorities served notice that municipal buildings in Castle street will be taken over by the military. This, it is stated by municipal officials, means the practical dislocation of municipal business and the disorganization of the city's staffs.

committee of Americans to visit British territory to obtain information about conditions in Ireland might be altered in the British Embassy by the commission of the Committee of One Hundred investigating the Irish question.

"If your letter were to represent the final opinion of the British Government," the commission wrote, "certain regrettable conclusions would seem to follow. It would seem to imply autocratic interference on the part of the Government with the free communication of friendly peoples." The letter went on to say that the commission would continue its work "in conformity with its original purpose" and that it could not but hope that both in England and Ireland there would be a "full understanding" of its friendly purpose.

HITCHCOCK TO DISCUSS LEAGUE WITH HARDING

Nebraska Senator, Who Led Fight for Ratification, to Be One of First to Go to Marion.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, O., Dec. 9.—Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who led President Wilson's Senate fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty, and Senator Shields of Tennessee, an opponent of unreserved ratification, will be among the first Democrats to be consulted by President-elect Harding in his conferences on the League of Nations, beginning next week. He also will ask the advice of several prominent women regarding the league.

Senator Harding has not decided whether he will resign from the Senate sooner than he had planned, upon Gov. Cox's promise to appoint Frank B. Willis, a Republican, to succeed him.

The "meeting of minds" he promised during the campaign will begin early next week after the Senator has put into more concrete form the questions he wants to ask those who come here to confer with him. The League of Nations will be foremost in his discussions, but several other problems will be kept in mind as he gathers advice and prepares himself for executive responsibility.

Mr. Harding has declared many times since he was nominated that there are urgent questions to be decided in the nation's domestic affairs and to these he will give attention in some of his conferences here. For one thing he has advanced a reorganization of several Government departments to insure greater business efficiency, and he is expected before March 4 to discuss that subject with some of the country's most successful business executives. Meantime, too, he must choose his Cabinet and must frame the taxation program he will recommend to the extra session of Congress to be followed soon after his inauguration. Upon most of these subjects he made some progress during his two-day visit in Washington.

MAN SHOT WHEN TRYING TO CATCH FLEEING ROBBERS

Men Had Severely Beaten and Choked Woman in Her Home After Demanding Her Money.

BOY, 15, CAUGHT AFTER A HOLDUP

Tells Woman He Had Halted He Did It "Just for Fun" — Merchant Robbed of $280 in Store.

Fred W. Olive, 54 years old, of 5719A Armand place, was shot in the right shoulder at 6:50 o'clock last night when he tried to head off two robbers in their flight from the home of Mrs. Lydia Breikreutz, 27, of 1500A Menard street, after they had beaten and choked Mrs. Breikreutz.

Mrs. Breikreutz was preparing supper in the kitchen, her husband, Emil Breikreutz, a baker, not having returned home from work. Her children, Walter, 5, and Adele, 3, were playing on the floor. In response to a knock at the back door Mrs. Breikreutz asked who was there.

"It's John, and I want to see Breikreutz," replied a masculine voice. Mrs. Breikreutz opened the door and two men pushed their way into the house.

Demanding Money From Woman. "We want your money," said one of the men, as the two produced revolvers, "and don't you scream."

Mrs. Breikreutz did not scream and one of the men knocked her down with a blow on the head. Then the children began screaming. Mrs. Breikreutz got up and was knocked down again. One of the robbers took his handkerchief from his pocket and forced it into her mouth and held it there with his hand. Mrs. Breikreutz struggled and was knocked down again. The robbers then ran away.

Olive, who was across the street, saw the men run through the hallway adjoining the Breikreutz home, and hearing Mrs. Breikreutz and her children screaming, he rushed to the street entrance of the hallway and asked the fleeing men what the trouble was. They pushed him aside, and Olive grabbed one of them.

As Olive was wrestling about with the robber the latter snapped his revolver several times. One bullet hit Olive and two others barely missed him. As the robber fired a fourth shot his companion staggered and leaned against a building.

Woman Ordered Away. Mrs. Hattie Arato of 1508 Menard street appeared at the Breikreutz home Nov. 9, when, during the absence of the family, Alois Scharl, a tailor, downstairs, caught two men tampering with a small wall safe in the Breikreutz flat. Scharl got a revolver and went upstairs after the robbers, one of whom jumped from a front window. The robbers escaped in an automobile which was waiting for them and in which a third man was sitting. Breikreutz told the police later that he had only $35 in the safe.

Young Caught After Holdup. Richard Wood Jr., 15, of 5030 Enright avenue, held up Mrs. Gertrude Dorsey of 5024 Kensington avenue at 7:30 p. m. in the safe.

"I have no money, as I am on my way from church," said Mrs. Dorsey, as the boy pointed a revolver at her and ordered her to put up her hands.

"Oh, I ain't robbing any church members," said the boy, and he walked away.

Mrs. Dorsey hurried home and telephoned to the Page Boulevard Police Station. Motor Cycle Police men Haycraft and Knox responded, and at Union boulevard and Kensington avenue their cycle car hit a sand pile and they were thrown out. Patrolmen Hobbitt and Miller, in another cycle car, were riding on Kensington and they took up the mission. At Academy and Kensington avenues they found Wood. He had an empty revolver in his pocket. Mrs. Dorsey identified the prisoner and he admitted that he had held her up, but said he did it "just for fun." He was sent to the House of Detention.

Robbed of $280 in Store. Chris Anastassoff was locking his confectionery, 4651 Easton avenue, at 12:30 o'clock this morning, when a man knocked at the front door and asked permission to use the telephone, saying that he wanted to call a physician. He was admitted to the store.

As he approached the telephone,

COAL, LACLEDE GAS COMPANY CONTRACTED FOR AT $5 A TON, NOW QUOTED AT $4 A TON

Secretary to the Governor of West Virginia Says Coal of the Same Character Is Quoted at $3.50 a Ton.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 9.—The Macbarr Coal Co., in circulars to public utilities and other customers today, quotes a price of $4 a ton on mine run Elkhorn coal.

Elkhorn coal is the coal for which the Laclede Gas Light Co. has contracted for 1921 at $5 a ton for 600,000 tons. As is known, this coal cost the basis of the company's pending application to be permitted to increase its gas rates 47 per cent to $1.25, a rate that will increase the total bill of gas consumers $3,000,000 next year.

The Post-Dispatch on last Friday printed the result of an interview among many coal operators and engineers at Cincinnati and other points as to the fairness of the price of $5, at which the Laclede has contracted to buy 600,000 tons of coal from the Consolidation Coal Co. during 1921.

Without exception, those interviewed expressed the opinion that the Laclede contracted at too high a price. They declared that the market was declining on the date on which the Laclede contracted, Nov. 12. They stated the market price of Elkhorn coal on the day of the interview to be $4.50, and predicted further declines. Some said that they believed the coal could be bought for $3 in the spring.

The Post-Dispatch today received the following telegram from J. W. Weir, secretary to the Governor of West Virginia at Charleston: "General run of quotations on Elkhorn coal not under $4. High volatile West Virginia coal of the same character as Elkhorn is being quoted at $3.50 a ton."

The Laclede has stated that it is shut out from purchase of coaling coal in the West Virginia fields in the visitor said that he had forgotten the number he wanted to call and asked the proprietor if he would keep the place open for a few minutes. Anastassoff consented.

A few minutes later the man returned with a companion. The man entered the store both drew revolvers and ordered Anastassoff to hold up his hands. They then told him to open the safe and he informed them that it was unlocked. The robbers took $200 from the safe and $80 from the cash register and ran out.

Anastassoff got his revolver and ran to the back door and fired in the air. Then he recalled that the Deer Street Police Station was just across the street and he fired another shot from the front door. Policemen searched the neighborhood, but found no trace of the robbers.

Other Robberies Reported. George Gilland, 35, of Freeport, Ill., a constable, was found in a dazed state in front of 4288 Arsenal street at 2 o'clock this morning. He was taken to the city hospital, where doctors said that he was suffering from alcoholism and a cut on the chin.

When he was revived Gilland said that he had been robbed of $90 in cash, a check for $400 and a gold watch. He said that he had stopped off in St. Louis on his way from Freeport to Kansas City. He arrived at Union Station at 9 o'clock last night, he said, and a short time later met two men, who invited him to have a drink. He said that was all he could remember.

Samuel Singer of 2956 Dickson street was robbed of $5 by two men, at Grand and Cook avenues, at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Rebecca Goldberg of 1399 Shawmut place was robbed of her purse and $48.65 by a man who bumped against her in $200 block on Sheridan avenue at 8:30 p. m.

THREE YOUNG MEN ADMIT HOLDUP AND TAKING OF $26

Still Found in Operation at Home of One of Trio When Detectives Go to Arrest Him.

Three young men held at police headquarters today confessed they were the robbers who held up Martin Herzog of 1242 Goodfellow avenue at 10:30 p. m. last Saturday night and stole $26 from him. They are Joseph Jablonski, 20 years old, of 5651 Cote Brillante avenue; Harold E. Woodward, 22, of Pine Lawn, St. Louis County, and Joseph A. Warnke, 23, of 1713 Franklin avenue.

When detectives yesterday went to Jablonski's home to arrest him, they found a still in operation in the kitchen, three barrels of mash and a quart of whiskey. They arrested Jablonski's father, Frank Jablonski, on a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

The three men who confessed said the Herzog robbery was the only one they ever committed and said they did it because they were out of work.

Hawes' Country Home Robbed. Harry B. Hawes of 4411 Westminster place, Congressman-elect from the Eleventh District, said today that robbers had rifled his country home at Gravois and Kennerly roads, near Sunset Hill Country Club, during the last week and stolen articles valued at $250. The most valuable article stolen was an automatic rifle. The robbers ransacked the house generally, but found that most of the articles of value had been moved to the town house. A caretaker lives in a detached cottage on the grounds, but reported hearing nothing.

Refuses to Approve Treaty. WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday refused to approve a treaty negotiated with Great Britain for the extradition of wife deserters from Canada. The prevailing sentiment among members seemed to be that it was a trivial matter. Forty states have laws for the surrender to each other of husbands who desert their wives and families.

State Outlines Charges Against Mrs. Woodlock. Special Counsel, in Opening Statement, Says It Will Be Shown Woman Shot Her First Husband.

Declares Grocer Heard Two Shots Tells Jury Storekeeper Will Testify Defendant Visited Shop Between Two Shots in Her Home.

Taking of testimony was begun this afternoon at the trial of Mrs. Lillian Woodlock, 36 years old, on a charge of first-degree murder for the death of her first husband, Thos. P. Broderick, Oct. 6, 1916, at their home, 6122 Wagner place.

high volatile coal by the freight rate which under a tariff to be effective in February will be 49 cents a ton higher than on Elkhorn coal. A freight differential of 49 cents applied to the present price of $3.50 for West Virginia coal would mean a price of $3.99 as compared with the Laclede's contract price of $5.

CITY GETS FIVE DAYS TO FILE BRIEF IN GAS RATE HEARINGS

Company Then Will Have Two Days in Which to File Answer in Favor of Increase.

At the close yesterday of a two-day hearing on the application of the Laclede Gas Light Co. to be permitted to increase its gas rates to $1.25 maximum, or 47 per cent, to household consumers, the Public Service Commission at Jefferson City gave the City Council five days in which to file a brief opposing an advance and the company two days in which to file its answer.

Yesterday's testimony was an endeavor of the company to establish the probability that the prices for coke it has used in its estimates for 1921 supporting its need for rate increase likely are too high and that declines in the market will still further increase the revenue needed from gas if the company is to have a "fair" residue over operating expenses. The city is contending that the company in its estimates should have employed the present price for coke, which is $1.50 per ton higher than the company's estimate of the future price. This difference in coke revenue estimates was the basis of the city's argument that the rates of the company should not be advanced beyond 35 cents.

Effect of Ruling in Liquor Penalty Case. Decision of Judge Faris May Halt Collection of $200,000 in This District.

The ruling of Judge Faris in the United States District Court yesterday that the Internal Revenue Department has no legal right to levy on property of persons accused of violation of the Volstead act, but that the department should bring civil suits to collect penalties for violation under the Internal Revenue Department regulations, will affect the collection of about $200,000 in penalties which have been assessed in the St. Louis Federal district.

The decision was given in the case of John Kausch, a former saloon keeper of 1728 South Seventh street, who is awaiting trial on a charge of having sold a drink of whiskey to a prohibition enforcement agent last June.

The court ruled that Kausch had a legal right to enjoin the seizure of his property to collect penalties amounting to approximately $500 and gave him 10 days in which to file an injunction suit. The decision in this suit, according to Internal Revenue officials, will determine whether the outstanding penalties against other alleged violators may be collected by levy or by civil process.

The Internal Revenue office here has collected $20,000 in penalties without the seizure of property. These collections would not be affected by an injunction ruling in favor of Kausch, internal revenue agents say, but the granting of an injunction to Kausch probably would cause others against whom penalties have been assessed to refuse payment until civil judgments have been rendered against them, as suggested by Judge Faris in his decision in the Kausch case.

YOUTH OUSTED FOR DANCING THE SHIMMY AND SUES. Because Arthur Lazenby, a minor, was ejected from a dancehall in Hillsboro, Ill., for dancing the shimmy, he has brought suit for $1000 damages against Roy Disher, who, Lazenby alleges, ejected him. Lazenby claims that he broke his foot when he fell and that he will not be able to dance for some time. Lazenby, being under age, the suit is brought by his next friend, John Lazenby.

At a dance given about three weeks ago by the Knights and Ladies of Security, Lazenby, who is about 19 years old, insisted upon dancing the shimmy, it is said, and Disher, the ranking officer of the lodge, ordered him to stop. Lazenby refused. He claims he had a right, under the laws of the United States, those of the State of Illinois and the ordinances of the city of Hillsboro, to dance the shimmy.

Refuses to Approve Treaty. WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday refused to approve a treaty negotiated with Great Britain for the extradition of wife deserters from Canada. The prevailing sentiment among members seemed to be that it was a trivial matter. Forty states have laws for the surrender to each other of husbands who desert their wives and families.

State Outlines Charges Against Mrs. Woodlock. Special Counsel, in Opening Statement, Says It Will Be Shown Woman Shot Her First Husband.

Declares Grocer Heard Two Shots Tells Jury Storekeeper Will Testify Defendant Visited Shop Between Two Shots in Her Home.

Taking of testimony was begun this afternoon at the trial of Mrs. Lillian Woodlock, 36 years old, on a charge of first-degree murder for the death of her first husband, Thos. P. Broderick, Oct. 6, 1916, at their home, 6122 Wagner place.

Her daughter, Ursula Broderick, who was sentenced to serve 10 years in the penitentiary for the killing of Woodlock and is at liberty under a $50,000 appeal bond, was with her mother in court today. She has said that she shot Broderick and the opening statement of the defense today indicated she would so testify.

Statement of Prosecution. William O. Reeder, former Assistant Circuit Attorney, engaged as special counsel for the State, said in his opening statement that evidence would be introduced to show that Mrs. Woodlock shot Broderick. He described the two-story home in which the Brodericks lived at the time of the shooting and said that two policemen who had been called to the house by telephone found the defendant, then Mrs. Broderick, and Ursula, then 15 years old, in the front room on the first floor. On the second floor at the top of the stairway, he said, they found Broderick sitting in a chair with a sledge hammer in his lap and with a bullet wound in his head. There was a bullet mark in a door behind him and under the chair was a revolver with two empty and three loaded shells.

Broderick Died Without Talking. The loaded cartridges, he said, were dented, as though an effort had been made to fire them, but they failed to explode. Broderick was found on the first floor. On the second floor at the top of the stairway, he said, they found Broderick sitting in a chair with a sledge hammer in his lap and with a bullet wound in his head. There was a bullet mark in a door behind him and under the chair was a revolver with two empty and three loaded shells.

Reeder said a grocer named Stadler, who then had a store near the Broderick home, would testify that he and his wife heard a shot and that a few minutes later the defense came into the store and said: "I think he killed himself." When questioned she said she meant her husband. He said the Stadlers would testify that when the defendant entered she had her hands under her apron and that after she departed bloodstains were found on the door through which she passed and on a picket fence near the store.

The Stadlers, he said, would testify that after the defendant left the store and returned to her home they heard a second shot. The police arrived 15 to 20 minutes later. Reference Made to Home. Reeder said it would be shown that the defendant was out until 1 a. m. the night before the shooting and that when she returned home there was a quarrel. She had left Ursula at the home of a friend on Myrtle avenue, he said, and Broderick went out searching for the girl. On the morning of the shooting, he said, the defendant brought the girl back home a short time before Broderick was killed.

He said witnesses would testify that on Oct. 6, the day before the shooting, the defendant told them she "had a gun."

The State, he said, would show that for some time before Broderick's death the defendant had been going out with Joseph Woodlock, whom she afterwards married. Broderick, he said, was buried on a Thursday and Woodlock went to the Broderick home the following Saturday night and lived there several weeks. He said he would prove that mail was delivered to Woodlock there and that a lawyer saw Woodlock leaving the Broderick home.

Counsel Denies She Shot. It also would be shown, he said, that the defendant once threatened to kill her husband in I. R. Goldberg's plumbing supply store. In the prosecution Reeder is being assisted by Assistant Circuit Attorney F. E. Verney and by Mrs. Woodlock's attorneys Benjamin L. White and Albert W. Johnson. White, in outlining the defense, said he would prove that Mrs. Woodlock did not shoot Broderick. When the defendant and Ursula returned home, he said, they found Broderick drunk and abusive. They counsel him to lie down, he said, and Ursula found a revolver in his pocket and took it from him. Broderick, he said, then got up and attacked his wife with a sledge hammer. Describing the defense's version of the shooting, he pointed to Ursula and said: "That child, in defense of her mother and to prevent her father from being branded as a murderer, closed her eyes and pulled the trigger several times." He said witnesses would testify they heard Ursula say to the defendant: "I shot him, mamma."

Number of Men Other Cities Use on Police Duty. Figures Obtained From New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and Boston.

Following Chief O'Brien's announcement, last Saturday, that he was considering a request on the Legislature for an increase of approximately 1000 members in the police force, the Post-Dispatch has obtained, from its correspondents in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and Boston, the figures as to the number of policemen employed in those cities.

Of the cities named, the first five outrank St. Louis in population in the 1920 census, while Boston is below St. Louis. The population figures are: New York, 5,621,151; Chicago, 2,701,212; Philadelphia, 1,823,158; Detroit, 992,739; Cleveland, 798,834; St. Louis, 772,897; Boston, 747,923.

Chief O'Brien, in discussing the proposed request for more policemen, said the total membership of the police force was 1600 in round numbers, but that not more than 900 men are on beat duty, engaged in the actual work of crime prevention, in any 24-hour period. As the force works in three eight-hour shifts, this would mean that, at any particular time, of day or night, about 300 policemen are on beats throughout the city, engaged in the work of crime prevention.

Figures on Other Cities. The difference between the 1600 and the 900, the Chief said, is accounted for by the number of officers, the detective force of 137, the traffic squad of 75 men, the automobile squad, details at 100 or more school buildings at certain hours of the day, and the number of men absent on furloughs and because of illness.

The figures from other cities, beginning with those nearest to St. Louis in population, are as follows: Boston—Total membership of police force, 1600. Number of patrolmen, 1855. All these except the traffic squad, numbering 100, are on regular patrol duty. Boston has only 30 detectives, who are known as inspectors. Boston has a night force and a day force, day men working 10 hours, and night men in two seven-hour shifts. Number of policemen on beat duty at one time is sometimes as high as 600.

Cleveland—Total membership of force, 1174; patrolmen, 925; patrolmen on beat duty, about 700; three-plateau system.

Philadelphia—Total membership of force, about 4700; policemen on beats, in active crime-prevention duty, 2850; three-plateau system.

Chicago—Total of force, 5100; patrolmen on beats, foot 1718, mounted 132; in active crime-prevention duty, 1850; combination of two and three plateau system.

Detroit—Total membership of force, 1800; patrolmen on foot duty and motor patrols, actively engaged in crime-prevention duty, 811; three-plateau system.

Express Clerk at Home of Bride When Arrested. Arthur Bennett Smith Tells of Spokane of Marriage Nov. 29 Before Going to Ranch House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 9.—Arthur Bennett Smith, lately mail clerk of the American Railway Express Co. in St. Louis, has related to special agents of that company here, since his arrest on a charge of stealing Liberty Bonds, that he was married in Spokane Nov. 29. He said the ranch at Ione, Wash., near the border of British Columbia, where he was staying when he was arrested, was the home of his wife's folks.

Smith, whose return to St. Louis was delayed, and who is now not scheduled to reach St. Louis before next Monday, said he lost, in St. Louis, most of the $11,700 which he has admitted that he obtained by pawing the stolen bonds.

He said that, at the time of his departure from St. Louis, Oct. 18, which was a week after he disappeared from the company's office at Twentieth street and Clark avenue, he had only about $500 with him.

Tells of Gambling Losses. He said, as has been told previously, that gambling caused his losses, but he now relates that he did not take up gambling until a few months ago, and he told of losing large sums in gambling in St. Louis establishments, and at the race track at Lexington, Ky.

"I never gambled in my life before last September," Smith said. "I was coaxed into a dice game in one of the St. Louis gambling houses. They had to show me how to throw the dice. I lost about $6000 this way in a few days."

"I was still at work when this happened, and I raised money by pawing Liberty Bonds taken from the company. I divided my crap-shooting between a gambling place run by a politician on Olive street and another place downtown, where they had about $50 worth of cigars as a blind and about $2000 worth of dice."

"I played first at the Olive street place, plunging heavily, then went to the other house, where I shot as high as $50 a throw. When I went back to the first place, they put a limit of $50 on the game, refusing to let me shoot more. They were sore because I had lost so much at the other house, and would give me no chance to get back what I had lost with the dice."

POLICEMEN ANSWERING BURGLAR
CALL FIND 3 BOYS UNDER BED

Jewelry Valued at $75 Found on Floor Beside Them—One, 16, Turned Over to Father.
Police men summoned to the home of Philip Alberts, 2223 North Market street, by neighbors at 3 p. m. yesterday were told there were burglars in the house. Police men were stationed at both front and rear doors and Sgt. Antram went in through the kitchen door which he found was unlocked.

Beneath a bed in the middle room he found three boys, one 16 years old and the others 17 years old. Beside them on the floor was jewelry valued at $75 taken from dresser drawers in the Alberts' home.

At the police station the boys admitted gaining entrance to the home by using a duplicate key on the kitchen door. The youngest was turned over to his father and the others held for investigation. The boys live in the neighborhood.

Weather Forecast

—rain and snow in the near future, in St. Louis and vicinity. And did you ever notice the affinity existing between the small boy and a puddle of water? No wonder mother spends a large portion of her time rubbing small chests and dosing with medicine. Yet "colds" are menacing and should be avoided. Not being able to model a child's nature, try strategy. Give the youngster a pair of red-top, knee length Rubber Boots, and let him splash! Ladies' Shoe Shop—Second Floor.

The Practical Man

—who so derides the frivolous or useless gift, has an open path toward following his theories in regard to gift-giving. A Fountain Pen is both suitable and acceptable to man or woman, schoolboy or schoolgirl. Or the newer Eversharp pencil, which has gained such popularity among business men and students, will be just as enthusiastically received. Stationery Shop—First Floor.

Gift Items of Interest

The Value of a Book

—is not measured in dollars and cents. Rather it is expressed in happy hours spent in reading, the subsequent hours spent in reflection, the subtle influence exerted over the acts and mental processes of the reader, and the pleasant associations and fragrant memories in years to come. Surely no gift is more suitable, more ideal; just as certainly no gift is more appreciated by Youth, Maturity or Age. Book Shop—Sixth Floor.

Betty's Bows

—have unlimited "dress-up" possibilities for Christmas festivities, etc. There is practically a rainbow of colors here in soft, lustrous silks and satins, with just sufficient stiffness to make a pretty, perky bow. The Ribbon Shop—First Floor.

Cushions

—for the davenport or the chaise longue, are unusual because of their extreme simplicity. They are made of changeable silk in a color matching or contrasting with the prevailing color scheme of the room, unspoiled by other decoration. Art Needlework Shop—Second Floor.

In the Stone Age

—there were no Sewing Machines. Until comparatively recent years there were no motor attachments for machines for home use. Now the Sewing Machine built with the motor as a part rather than an attachment, may be obtained. The Free Westinghouse requires only that you attach the cord to the ordinary light socket, and press with the knee against the controller to regulate the speed. The Machine, when not in use, looks like a very handsome little writing desk, and certainly will bring no discord into the well appointed room. Sewing Machine Shop—Second Floor.

Give Books

No Christmas gift is more appreciated than a good book. It carries with it an expression of careful selection. It adds to the gift itself the compliment of personal choice. Sometimes we wonder why people select anything but books as Christmas gifts, especially when it is so easy to find just the right sort of book for each particular friend. If you visit our Book Shop on the 6th floor, you will see just how easy and how pleasant it is.

They are fresh and new—in smart over-the-skirt Balkan and tie-on models—fashioned of

Crepe de Chine and Satin

—so especially smart for suit Blouses this season. There are three different attractive styles—showing unusual embroidery designs in metallic threads and yarn—also hemstitching and plaited ruffle trimming.

Colors are navy, brown and black Blouse Shop—Third Floor.

MAN SHOT WHEN ACTING LIKE A ROBBER DIES

William Roessell Was Wounded by Jeweler Who Answered Call for Help—
Says He Had Been Drinking.

William Roessell, 26 years old, of 1302 Webster avenue, who was shot Friday while he was going through the maneuvers of a hold up in the store of Oscar Zettler, a locksmith, at 2313 Chouteau avenue, died yesterday at 5 p. m. at the city hospital of his wound, which was inflicted by Philip Schneider, proprietor of a jewelry store next door to the locksmith's, who responded to a call for help from the locksmith's store.

Roessell, after he was wounded, told the police that he had been drinking heavily on Friday and had no recollection of his subsequent actions. He entered the locksmith's store, which was temporarily in charge of Zettler's daughter, Hazel, 18, obtained from her a revolver which was lying behind a counter and which he said was his, filled it with cartridges, forced the girl to a rear room, where Mrs. Zettler and other children were forced to raise their hands, and ordered a customer who entered at that juncture to go to that rear room also.

Another daughter, Ethel, 17, heard the commotion as she was about to enter the rear of the store and ran instead to Schneider's store. Before Schneider could obtain a revolver and reach Zettler's store, Zettler himself returned. Roessell snapped the revolver trigger twice at Zettler, the bullets failing to explode, whereupon Zettler grappled with him. Schneider entered with a revolver and Roessell snapped his revolver once at him, it again failing to explode the cartridge. Schneider then fired, the bullet entering Roessell's chest.

Mayor's Proclamation.
Mayor Kiel has issued the following proclamation, commending the Legion and its entertainment to the public:

"The 20,000 members of the American Legion in the City of St. Louis are giving "The Battle of Paris" at the Coliseum during this week.

"It is the intention of the Legion to make this a yearly festival, with a changing program. The American Legion deserves the united support of the entire citizenship of St. Louis in their endeavor to make this festival a success, the proceeds of which are to be used for the Legion organization and for the furthering of the forces of law and order in our city as well as in our entire country, and fighting the forces of Bolshevism, anarchy and evil, and looking to a more thorough hospital organization for the aid of their wounded and helpless comrades and to maintain the present service bureau for the unemployed."

"Now, therefore, I, Henry W. Kiel, Mayor of the City of St. Louis, do hereby proclaim this week as American Legion Week in St. Louis, and would ask the hearty support of the citizenship in this city in loyally supporting these gallant boys who so faithfully offered, and still offer, their all, if necessary, that the great government at Washington might continue to exist and that the forces of evil might be arrested in the entire nation."

Last night was Red Cross night at the Coliseum and familiar Red Cross posters were reproduced in tableaux. In one of these 50 persons posed, forming a cross. The Pageant Choral sang patriotic numbers. The Fire Department Zouaves gave a drill.

TWO WHO WERE IN A. E. F. SENTENCED BY JUDGE FARIS

Penitentiary and Jail Terms for Men Convicted of Having Stolen Shoes and Transporting Stolen Auto.

Federal Judge Faris, in sentencing two former A. E. F. members, one to a penitentiary and the other to a jail, in spite of their pleas for leniency because of their service records, said today that crime is increasing too rapidly and that the only way, in his opinion, to stop it, is to put the criminals behind bars and keep them there.

The first case was that of Jacob Teper, 21 years old, charged with having in his possession shoes stolen from an interstate shipment. Teper was a witness for the Government yesterday in the trial of B. Hinden, a cobbler, who had been charged jointly with Teper. The latter impressed Judge Faris as being an unwilling witness, and the Court told him that he was apparently trying to shield the "master mind" in the theft. Hinden was discharged at the direction of the Judge.

After entering a plea of guilty today, Teper, through counsel, said that he was the eldest of eight children, and that he and his father were the sole support of the family. He said that he volunteered when he was 18 years old and served 18 months.

Sentenced to Penitentiary. "Young men with as much responsibility as you say you have should have less reason to commit crime than those with less responsibility," said the Judge. "I commend all young men who have served their country, but I am coming to the conclusion that too many of those young men, returning from overseas, are averse to taking up the 'white man's burden.' I do not say that all of them feel that way, but there are indeed too many who are willing to believe that the world owes them a living and who proceed to get it at pistol point. I will sentence you to a year and a day at Fort Leavenworth."

In the case of Noah Barnes of Nashville, Tenn., charged with transporting interstate a stolen automobile, Judge Faris accepted a plea of guilty and listened to a plea for clemency by counsel. Letter from State and county officials, Tennessee, testifying to Barnes' previous good record, were read. Counsel further stated that Barnes had served in France, and that he had been in jail in connection with the criminal charge since Aug. 23.

"Crime is increasing too rapidly," said Judge Faris. "Perhaps we are not getting as much evidence of it in this court, as they are getting in the State courts, but even here the increase is noticeable. It has to be stopped, and the only way I know of stopping it is to put the criminals behind the bars and keep them there. I am going to be lenient in this case."

Barnes was sentenced to two months and 15 days in the county jail at St. Charles, in addition to the time he has spent in jail awaiting disposition of the case.

KITCHIN CALLS HOUSTON PLAN PRO-REPUBLICAN

Recommendation of Repeal of Excess Profits Tax Bitterly
Assailed by Democrat.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Secretary Houston's recommendations in his annual report that excess profits taxes be repealed and the high brackets of income surtaxes be reduced were attacked today by Representative Kitchen of North Carolina, ranking Democratic member of the House Ways and Means Committee, as "the most unwise, unjust, un-Democratic and pro-Republican proposal that ever emanated from any department of the Government since its beginning."

Kitchen's attack was contained in a formal statement, in which he said he felt certain that if the Democrats were in control of the House the Secretary's proposal would be rejected unanimously.

"The whole intent and policy of his recommendations," Kitchen continued, "are to relieve the corporate interests and millionaires, who for the last four years have plundered and profiteered upon the people to the extent of $50,000,000,000, of a billion and a half or two billion of dollars of taxes annually and placed that amount upon the backs of the people, that is, the victims of such plunderers and profiteers."

"I cannot understand how any man who claims to have a single impulse for the masses, or who claims to be a Democrat, could make such recommendation—but, I understand, that neither Mr. Houston nor any of his friends make such claims for him. If a Republican administration were to make such recommendations the Democrats in the house would not want a better issue.

"The Secretaries of the Treasury under Mr. Wilson were the first to ever assume the authority to tell Congress what it ought to tax, or ought not to tax, and the rate of taxation."

"If the Democratic party in Congress were to adopt the suggestions of Secretary Houston's report, it would be no use to hold future Democratic conventions, for no Democratic candidate hereafter would get anything like as many votes as Gov. Cox did in the last election, and the Lord knows he got few enough."

"I predict that in the next Congress, that in behalf of many Republican measures with respect to taxation, the Republicans will cite Secretary Houston as well as the President as authority for their position."

WHEEL, OFF OF AUTO, HITS HOME

An automobile bearing a Missouri State license, which the police say was issued to Joseph Arlotto Jr., of 2132 A Cooper street, was wrecked at 2 a. m. yesterday when it collided with a telegraph pole at Thirty-second and State streets, East St. Louis.

One wheel, broken from the axle, continued along the street, vaulted onto the porch of a house 100 feet distant, smashed one of the porch uprights and broke open the door. The police have no report of any person being injured.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF U.S. SOUND WATTS SAYS

President of First National Bank Asserts Most of Unrest Is Due to Alarmists.

That the financial condition of the country is at present absolutely sound, and since our resources have been greatly multiplied in recent years, there should be no occasion for pessimism, especially as credits were never so good nor the purchasing power of individuals greater, said Frank O. Watts, president of the First National Bank, in one of three addresses on the economical situation in the United States at a joint luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce and Advertising Club yesterday at Hotel Statler. Watts was emphatic in his statements that a great deal of the present economic unrest was due to alarmists, and he advised the business men to get down to work in earnest to supply a great European trade in the near future.

The other speakers were Archer Wall Douglas, vice president of Simmons Hardware Co.; Flint Garrison, president of Garrison-Wagner Advertising Co., and A. C. McKinnon, St. Louis representative of the United States Shipping Board exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce next week.

Credits Not Restricted. Watts said there had been a great deal of misrepresentation as to the attitude of the Federal Reserve Board and banks toward farmers and others in restricting credits. He said credits had not been restricted except in some cases to curtail speculation. He pointed out that the Federal Reserve Board had never neared the limit of currency it could legally issue, and probably never would reach the limit. He declared the board could issue an additional $600,000,000 currency and still be within the limit, and for this reason, he explained, financial conditions are sound and we may expect the board to insure the country against serious trouble.

He said he was not alarmed at the situation in this country, and that he expected the consumer, producer and dealer to tire quickly of their attitude and get together in the interest of the common good. What does concern him most, he asserted, was how the banks would handle supplemental credits to the $3,000,000,000 now being carried for Europe, that may be expected a year hence when Europe comes into the market in earnest in its program of rehabilitation.

"I am confident of the present," he said, "but not so confident just now that we can take care of the great trade from Europe that will begin to come a year hence, the European trade of the future is my greatest concern."

Difficult to Find Markets. Douglas said he did not believe the consumer would start normal buying until prices had reached a reasonable level, and that his guess was that quiet times would continue through the winter season with a consequent lessening of production and employment. Our real difficulty, he said, was to find markets for our surplus products, but since the producer, manufacturer and retailer have enjoyed high prices for six years, Douglas believes they should give the consumer his inuring with good grace and take their losses like sportsmen.

Garrison read the report recently published by the special committee of the Associated Retailers, and expressed confidence in an early normal resumption of business in all lines, with increasing prosperity from the start.

Several selections were played by the band of the Hotel de David, which is playing an engagement this week at a local vaudeville theater.

FOR PARTY IN TAXING MORTGAGES AND BONDS

Hiram Lloyd Tells Real Estate Men Uniformity Is Needed to Attract Investors to Housing.

Real estate mortgages must be placed upon a parity with Government and State bonds as to taxation if new homes are to be built in the required number, Hiram Lloyd, Lieutenant-Governor-elect, told members of the Real Estate Exchange at the American Annex yesterday.

Lloyd said that persons with money to invest had surrendered their patriotism to their pocketbook to the extent that they would not invest in securities subject to taxation for the upkeep of the Government, if they could put their money into something else which escaped taxes. This militates against building, he said, and is a factor in the deplorable housing conditions here.

All property should be on the same basis as to taxation, he said, with real estate, notes, bonds, mortgages and personal property, assessed at 100 per cent, and all incomes, even down to the $3-a-day man, should be taxed, at least to the nominal extent, to make him part of the Government.

Members of the Real Estate Exchange should favor a redistricting of the State which will give St. Louis larger representation in the State Legislature, Lloyd declared, explaining that at present St. Louis, which pays about 45 per cent of the taxes of the State, has only 14 representatives in the House and six in the Senate. He also declared that legislators should be persons of broad gauge, sound judgment and iron hearts, and that if the real estate men wanted legislators like that, the time to do their work was in the primary.

He deplored the failure of the proposed constitutional amendment intended to increase the pay of legislators, saying that men of brains and ability are expected to go to Jefferson City at $6 a day, where they will cost them $6 to $7 a day to live and provide for their families, stay honest, enact good laws and return to their homes poorer by several hundred dollars, than when they left. Missourians really don't deserve good measures under the circumstances, he said.

MEETING OF ALL DRY ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS CALLED

Conference to Be Held in Kansas City Wednesday to Lay Plans for Enforcing State Bone Dry Law.

20 INVITED BY HOWELL TO ATTEND

Appointment of Marshall Campbell as Assistant Attorney-General, in Charge of Enforcement, Announced.

Shrader P. Howell, State Prohibition Director, has called a conference to be held in Kansas City next Wednesday, to which he has invited all of the Federal and State officers concerned with the enforcement of the Volstead act and the new State Bone dry law, to devise plans for effective co-operation in enforcing the dry laws.

Coincident with Howell's announcement, Jesse W. Barrett, Attorney-General-elect, made public his selection of Marshall Campbell, City Attorney of Sedalia, Mo., and son of the Rev. Stephen B. Campbell of St. Louis, District Superintendent for the Methodist Episcopal church, to be Assistant Attorney-General in charge of prohibition enforcement, under the new administration.

Satisfactory to Dry. Campbell, who is known to be satisfactory to dry forces, holds degrees from Southwest Teachers' College and Drury College, Springfield, Mo., and has studied at Missouri Wesleyan College, Camerap, Mo., and Central Missouri Teachers' College, Warrensburg. He was at various times managing editor of the Springfield Missouri Republican and telegraph editor of the Joplin Globe, and during the war was in the United States embassy at London.

Barrett, who was invited by Howell to attend the prohibition conference, notified Campbell also to attend.

About 20 persons have been invited by Howell to attend the conference in Kansas City, among them Chief of Police O'Brien and Prosecuting Attorney Sidener, United States District Attorney Carroll, Vance J. Higgs, special assistant United States Attorney-General, and F. T. Digges, Supervisor of Prohibition Enforcement, all of St. Louis.

The prosecuting attorneys and prosecutors-elect of Jackson, Greene, Jasper and Buchanan counties, Chief of Police Godley of Kansas City, also have been urged to attend, as have David Gates of Little Rock, Federal District Supervisor of Prohibition Enforcement, A. B. Munsey, supervisor at Kansas City, and Attorney-General McAllister. Just what measures will be offered to the conference are not known, though Federal officers here have suggested that the State take over the prosecution of first offenders, leaving the Government to deal only with second offenders. Barrett said that he had not completed his study of the Volstead act and the State bone dry law, hence has not clearly outlined yet the policies, if any, which he will lay before the conferees.

POLICE CANVASS TO GET NAMES OF WORTHY DESTITUTE STARTED

Police today started to canvass the city for the names of all worthy destitute families in order that a list of such persons may be furnished charitably inclined organizations or persons.

Chief O'Brien in ordering the canvass instructs the police to be especially inquisitive about widows and their families, asking that the names, ages, etc., of all the children be included in the report. The list is to be completed, he says, not later than Wednesday, Dec. 15.

WOMAN AND CHILDREN POISONED

Family Found Violently Ill From Potomines.

Mrs. Anna Smith, 26, of 3523 Vista avenue, and her two children, Irma, 7, and Charles, 3, were found violently ill from ptomaine poisoning by the husband and father, Charles, when he returned home at 4 p. m. yesterday. A doctor, after several hours, reported them out of danger. Smith told the police his wife and children had partaken of a lunch of cheese, spaghetti, hamburger steak and canned tomatoes purchased from a neighboring store. Sample of each of the edibles mentioned were turned over to the police for an analysis by the City Bacteriologist.

Gen. Angelo's Children Poisoned. By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—The Senate, after eulogizing Gen. Felipe Angeles, former Villa leader, as one of the republic's most brilliant patriots, has adopted a bill providing for a pension of six pesos ($3) daily for his daughter and two sons until they become of age. The children, who are now in New York, were orphaned when their father was shot late last year after being captured by Carranza forces, the shock killing their invalid mother.

HOTEL MAY NOT BE USED FOR GIRLS' HOME

Letmar Club Will Abandon Plan
If Purchaser for Shardell Property Can Be Found.

The directors of the Letmar Club have announced that the club's plan to convert the Shardell Hotel, Lindell boulevard and Boyle avenue, into a home for working girls, will be abandoned, and the home will be located elsewhere, if the club can find a purchaser for the hotel property. The club has set April 15 as the time for taking possession of the hotel property and opening the proposed home, if it still owns the building at that time.

Members of the Lindell Boulevard Association, residents of Lindell boulevard, made known in September their objections to the proposed institution. Robert L. McLaren, president of the association, said at that time that he hoped the organization could co-operate with the Letmar management in finding another location for the working girls' home. The Letmar management now says that it can find a new location, and that the assistance needed is in disposing of the Lindell boulevard property.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE DISTRICT TO INDUSTRIAL PROPOSED

Petition Blanks to Be Circulated
Among Property Owners Along
Wabash Right of Way.

The City Plan Commission, at a meeting Tuesday night, decided to circulate official petition blanks among owners of property in a proposed new factory district between Broadway and the city limits and Florissant and McLaren avenues, along the Wabash right of way. It is proposed to change this from a second residence and commercial district to an industrial district.

A public hearing on the proposed change was held last week. John L. Grether, a real estate agent, advocated the change.

In the course of his remarks he said Architect E. E. Christopher of the City Plan Commission did not seem interested in bringing factories to St. Louis. Christopher arose and said: "You're a liar."

After last night's meeting Christopher submitted his resignation as architect of the commission, to take effect Jan. 1. It was accepted. Christopher said his resignation had no connection with the clash between him and Grether at the public hearing, but he was resigning to accept a similar position with the American City Consultant, a civic organization of New York. His salary here was $550 a month.

VOTE AGAINST CAMBRIDGE CO-EDS

Women Refused Full Membership at English University.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 9.—Cambridge University yesterday, by a vote of 904 to 712, refused women full membership in the university on equal terms with men. Most of the other universities, including Oxford, have already granted full membership to women, and the decision means that women attending Cambridge University, who are present at the same lectures and take the same honors and examinations as the men, are still prevented from taking degrees. Cambridge wants women to have their own university, with a charter enabling the granting of degrees, but the women are not inclined to accept this concession.

MAN IS KILLED BY MUNICIPAL STREET CAR

He Was Trying to Drag Wagon on Tracks From Mudhole Beside Road.

George Biljanski, 42 years old, of 7100 Hall street, was struck and killed by a street car on the Municipal Railway at 11 o'clock last night when trying to pull his wagon out of a mudhole alongside the tracks at the intersection of Carrie avenue.

The horse that had been attached to the wagon when Biljanski left home to buy groceries at 7 p. m., was not found in the neighborhood, and is supposed to have run away when the collision occurred.

Motorman August Krewinghaus, operating the car, said he was southbound when the headlight of the car showed Biljanski when the car was but a few feet from the spot. There is no regular crossing at that point, and when he saw Biljanski, he said, the latter was in the shafts of the wagon trying to drag it on the tracks. He said the distance was too short to stop the car, and Biljanski was struck and knocked several feet. He was taken on the car to a physician's office, where he was pronounced dead.

Biljanski's wife, Kate, and their five children, found at home by the police, said they could not account for Biljanski being at the point where the accident occurred unless the horse had run away, and had drawn the wagon to the unimproved point in the road where the wagon had mired.

A Woman's Letter on Kindliness

On this occasion, as always in the past, the Mississippi Valley Trust Company has proved the kindness of its service to its friends.

—From a Woman's Letter to Us.

We have tried to express that idea in actions for more than thirty years, but have never seen it so well expressed in words.

Comment seems superfluous, but one point is worth considering—

When you are considering the executor and trustee who will perpetuate your care for your family—look first for strength, experience and business judgment, but give a thought to kindness as well.

Norfolk Strike Vote Begins.
By the Associated Press.
ROANOKE, Va., Dec. 9.—Members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen employed on the Norfolk & Western railroad began a strike vote last night after conference with the railroad officials had reached a deadlock. N. D. Maher, president of the railroad, announced that the question of an increase in wages was at issue. The ballot submitted to the men was said to set forth a list of 14 grievances against the company. About 2500 employees are affected.

MEXICO TO SLACKEN EFFORTS TO OBTAIN U. S. RECOGNITION

Campaign Not to Be Carried On So Actively Under Obregon as It Was Under Huerta.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—Efforts to obtain recognition by the United States of the Obregon regime in Mexico will not be carried on as actively as they were under the administration of Adolfo de la Huerta. It is indicated here. The fact that within the past few days Japan, Germany and Brazil have recognized Mexico has aroused only mild newspaper comment. Several journals have urged editorially the necessity of recognition by the United States. President Obregon spent the most of his first week in official life at home recuperating from the strenuous program of the inauguration. He is following a rigid program of diet and exercise. Gen. Benjamin Hill, Secretary of War, is also ill.

TOWN PROVIDES FREE FUNERALS

All Necessaries Furnished, but No Luxuries.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
BERLIN, Dec. 9.—Free funerals for all is the latest communistic novelty. The town of Schedewitz, in Saxony, offers its inhabitants all the necessities of death free of charge. These include a coffin, "corpse clothes," professional treatment by local undertakers, grave digging and transportation on a truck to a cemetery.

But the community will not pay for the luxuries of dying. Those bereaved must continue to settle the cost of a hearse, of flowers, of tolling the church bell and playing the organ, and of keeping the graves and tombstones in order.

Since the Days Before the War!

Here are some values that can not possibly be equaled elsewhere—quality and prices considered. Many and many times have the Kroger Stores demonstrated that they are deserving of the patronage of the people of this community. At no other time, however, has this fact been demonstrated with such emphasis as it is today. Just look at these prices—back to a pre-war level! They are good every day in the week, subject only to cost changes. You can easily see now, if you have never seen before, that the Kroger Stores have their customers' interests at heart—being satisfied with a very small profit above wholesale cost on each article sold.

U. S. INVESTIGATOR IN CITY TO ADVISE ON MILK PROBLEM

Ernest Kelly Says Ordinance
Should Be Brief, Leaving
Promulgation of Rules to Health Department.

FAVORS ADOPTION OF PERMIT SYSTEM

Thinks Regulation Can Be Made Safe Without Being
So Stringent as to Curtail the Supply.

Changes in the ordinance regulating the milk supply in St. Louis which seem desirable to modernize it were outlined today to a Post-Dispatch reporter by Ernest Kelly, investigator of market milk for the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Kelly and his assistant, R. F. Smith, have come from Washington to appear tomorrow before the Citizens' Milk Committee at a meeting at 1:30 p. m. in the Vandervoort auditorium. The Citizens' Milk Committee is a recent association of 25 civic organizations to correct and thereafter guard the character of the milk being served to St. Louis households. Tomorrow's meeting will be the first of a series at which the various interests in the milk industry—producers, distributors and Federal, State and city regulatory bodies—will be asked to appear to present their views of what sort of a milk ordinance the city needs at this time. The committee will mold these views into an ordinance to be presented in January to the Board of Aldermen.

Milk Ordinance Outgrown.
"The St. Louis milk ordinance," Kelly said to the reporter, "while having many good provisions, is antiquated and does not conform to recently developed knowledge on bacteria, sanitation and pasteurization. As cities outgrow their charters, so St. Louis has outgrown its milk ordinance."

"I think it is unwise to endeavor to amend the present ordinance, but would recommend the repeal of the present ordinance by a simple, brief ordinance that will be enforceable yet not surrendering ideals, the details of its operation being left to promulgations of regulations under it by the Department of Health or whoever may be charged with its enforcement. Regulations by such rules is more flexible and satisfactory that regulation under detailed specifications of an ordinance."

"I would suggest that the temperature requirement for pasteurization be raised from 140 degrees for 30 minutes, as in the present ordinance, to 145 degrees for 30 minutes. Experience has shown that all disease bacteria are not killed at 140 degrees of heat, while they may reasonably be presumed to have been killed by an addition of five degrees."

Permanent System Favored.
"I advocate also the creation of a permit system also whereby the city would be authorized to specify conditions under which milk could be shipped to distributors within it. This means a system of inspection on the producing farms in Illinois and the refusal of milk produced by unclean or otherwise improper methods. The ordinance could specify that producers refusing inspection by the city inspectors would be forbidden to ship their milk to St. Louis. Such provisions have been upheld by court decisions."

"I approve also a suggestion made by Director of Public Welfare Schmall in a conference with him that any new ordinance should provide for the regulation of ice cream. He informs me that there is not now any regulation of ice cream, with the result that most made for sale here is manufactured from raw milk and cream. Raw milk and cream in ice cream hold the same dangers for general health as unpasteurized milk and cream do for direct consumption. Heat kills bacteria, freezing does not. The ordinance should forbid the making of ice cream from any but pasteurized cream and milk.

Should Be Reasonable.
"The present ordinance declares that no pasteurized milk containing more than 50,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter shall be offered for sale. In making any ordinance, one of the concerns should be that it be enforceable. I think that the limit of 50,000 bacteria could be raised to 100,000 without materially affecting the wholesomeness of the milk. I doubt if it is possible to obtain an adequate supply of raw milk capable of being reduced at all seasons by pasteurization within 50,000 bacteria. "Any new ordinance must be an ordinance which will permit reasonably pure milk to be sold and not be so stringent as to seriously curtail the supply available."

Kelly said that his visit was not to impose any notions of the Department of Agriculture upon the city, but to give such information to city officials and the Citizens' Milk Committee as might be helpful in drafting an ordinance which would insure for the city safe, clean milk.

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 9.—Life imprisonment was the sentence passed upon 16-year-old Samuel Blevens, formerly of Little Rock, Ark., in court here yesterday, after the lad had pleaded guilty to a charge of murder. Young Blevens was accused of having killed C. F. Grandstaff, a Baltimore & Ohio railroad car inspector, in a shack near this city, Oct. 13, last.

OFFICERS OF ITALIAN CRAFT
REPORTED ATTACKED BY CREW

Abandoned in Boat Which Lands at Rome Where D'Annunzio Rescues Them, London Hears.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Officers of the Italian submarine chaser No. 68-PN were treacherously attacked, bound and gagged by their crew and then placed in a boat which took them into the harbor of Fiume, says a Milan dispatch to the London Times, describing the desertion of the vessel from the blockading fleet along the Dalmatian coast. When the boat landed, it was met by Capt. Gabriele D'Annunzio, who gave the men a cordial reception and made an address in which he denounced as a traitor Admiral Millo, in command of Italian naval forces in the Adriatic.

His address was greeted by cheers and shouts of "Let us go to Spalato; let us go to Rome." The chaser was then boarded by D'Annunzio, who ordered that the officers be released. If they wished to return to their fleet and report the incident. Assertion is made that their protestations of loyalty to the Italian Government were received with contempt, but they were allowed to leave by train.

Self Destruction Has Fallen Off in U. S. Since Entrance Into War, Insurance Article States.

Suicide records compiled from 100 American cities for the past 20 years show that since the entrance of the United States into the war the suicide rate has decreased, the lowest figures being reached in 1919, according to an article entitled "The Suicide Record of 1919," by Frederick L. Hoffman, printed in The Spectator, an insurance journal published at New York City. There were 3818 suicides in the 100 representative cities, and the rate per 100,000 population was 14.2 in 1919.

It is stated in the article that on the basis of the latest available data the number of suicides in the continental United States for 1920 may be conservatively estimated at not less than 12,000.

The suicide rate increased from 15.4 per 100,000 population in 1900 to a maximum of 21.7 in 1908, a trend which has not been repeated subsequent to that date, although rates approaching the maximum figure prevailed in 1909, 1911 and the first two years of the war, 1914 and 1915.

Record by States.

A table of unusual interest in the article is a record of suicides according to states, which shows that the smallest number of suicides was in the Southern States, while the largest number was in cities along the Pacific Coast. The largest suicide rate for 1919 was in San Francisco, where the rate per 100,000 population was 33.9.

Another table shows that in a period from 1914 to 1918, 89,273 men and 12,628 women ended their lives. More men committed suicide with firearms than by any other method, while poisoning was the principal method of women. The suicide rate among women due to poisoning approached closely the corresponding rate for men.

The article states "that there is another peculiar method of suicide apparently on the increase, that is by jumping from tall buildings with the obvious risk of death to passing pedestrians on the streets below."

An instance of this form of suicide cited in the article was that of an actor who jumped from the seventh floor of a building, leaving a note behind headed, "How one feels just before death by jumping from the seventeenth story of a building."

St. Louis Figures. The suicide rate in St. Louis, one of the cities included in the survey, is shown to have decreased from 22.4 per 100,000 population in 1900, to 18.7 in 1919. The lowest rate of suicides were in 1918, while in 1914 and 1915 the number was highest.

The article points out that the annual list includes college professors, clergymen, physicians and lawyers. Suicides of children are not so frequent in America as in European countries.

Several instances pointed out tend to show that suicides are becoming more brutal in "their utter disregard of all human instincts of love and affection," one instance being that of a man who killed himself after shooting his wife in the back while kissing her good-by.

In regard to causes of suicides, the article says: "The growing number of instances of cases in which all health is attributed to the predisposing causes should arouse the attention of experts in mental diseases. The capacity to endure pain and the willingness to suffer is seemingly diminishing, while the complacent view is gaining ground that death and all that life is not worth living unless lived pleasantly and agreeably."

Illness directly contributory to suicide cases, influenza was apparently an important factor in the mortality of 1918, the article adds.

BESSIE CLIFFORD, DANCER, SAYS WOMAN THREW LIQUID ON HER

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Miss Beattie Clifford, the American dancer, appeared as complainant against Mrs. Hettie Kinsler in a police court Tuesday. The American actress declared that she was dining in the Carlton grill when Mrs. Kinsler approached in the most threatening manner. "Crying, 'I'll have your life!' she drew a bottle from her pocket and threw its contents over me," said Miss Clifford, with emotion. "The horrid stuff burned my dress. This lady has the idea that her husband is paying me too much attention. That is perfectly absurd—I would not permit it, as everyone knows who knows me."

Miss Clifford said, further, that when she was leaving her home, not long ago, she encountered Mrs. Kinsler.

"She behaved in a way that caused everyone to stop and look at me, which, of course, was extremely objectionable to me."

The Judge bound over Mrs. Kinsler to keep the peace. Miss Clifford has appeared in various performances here, the most notable, perhaps, the London opera house revue, "Come Over Here."

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Frederick Thompson Adams, wealthy widow of a leading banker of this city, two weeks ago became the bride of her chauffeur, Patrick O'Rourke, at her home at Highland, N. LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Ethics of True Sportsmanship.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

An editorial in a local newspaper bearing upon the State park purchase plan made (seemingly) stirring reference to "nature conservationists." Can it be possible that the editor is yet unaware of the complete change of sentiment in recent years as regards conservation and wild life protection? Men like Hornaday, Hough, Seton-Thompson, Burroughs, Wallace, Alexander, Bennett and Barber, as well as scores of others whose magazine articles continually come to our notice, are very largely responsible for this noticeable change in public sentiment. No better evidence of this can be had than the following excerpt from an address delivered before the Martin County Game, Fish and Bird Protective League at Fairmount, Minn., by Sam G. Anderson Jr.:

"Anything that awakens in a man's heart a love and understanding of nature makes him a happier and more wholesome individual. Anything that makes a man a better sportsman makes him a better man.
"We who have tramped the stubbles in autumn, stood guard on the duck passes amidst the biting winds of coming winter, who have trod the trails of the northwoods in November's chill, all know the delightful fellowships and friendships that nature gives its devotees. No warm attachments are created than along the trout streams or on the lakes where hush and pike and crappie lure the angler. And so when such men unite for action and attract others to their company, it makes for fellowship and understanding; for harmony and tolerance. If in all our relations in life we practiced the chivalry and manliness, the spirit of unselfishness and mutual service that exists in the camps and on the field and trail, what a true brotherhood we would enjoy!"

"Our only hope of preserving the wild life is by such organizations as yours. Laws are worthless without the support of public sentiment. An ounce of sentiment is worth a ton of legislation. Organization and ours and many like them, all over the State, are proceeding along rational and practical lines. The old-time organizations did more harm than good. In fact they were all harm and no good. The old-time sportsmen's organizations were crisscrossed with the sportsmen. As I look back to the old-time attitude I wonder we have any wild life left, and I thank God that we came to a realization of our profligacy and butchery before the day of the automobile and the repeating and automatic shotguns."

"We are all learning these things, and while we are learning we are developing a new attitude toward our wild life, a higher standard of sportsmanship, a better code of ethics. The day's bag or string is no longer the test of the measure of success with gun or rod. The kill is but an incident, the limit never sought nor waste permitted."
At some time or other the "nature conservationists" of today will recall with real gratification the efforts made in behalf of conservation in its various forms for the benefit of the children of tomorrow. Can it be that some of us are not yet awake to a full realization of nature's call?
F. L. RAND.

A Holdup Victim.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I notice that our Chief of Police is endeavoring to clean up our city of thugs and robbers. I am one of their victims, being held up at 2 o'clock in the alley near Elm street, and I know how it feels to be held up, if they did not get much from me. I am a poor workman and did not have much with me, but they choked me until I was nearly dead, and I am going to be one to help our Chief in this movement.
CHAS. L. BRYAN.

For the Other Fellow.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
You are right; the majority of employers are intelligent, capable men. As such each knows that the paying of high wages is the proper thing—for all other employers to do. Yours truly,
AN EMPLOYER.

Political Bad Form.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Isn't it rather bad form on the part of Senator Harding and others to assume that he is President of the United States until March 4? The errand of Medill McCormick could hardly be considered in an official light. There seems to be no decency nor courtesy left among politicians, and private citizens sit by idly and permit their President to be insulted day after day and make no attempt to stop it.
Where is the manhood of the private citizens of America that they do not rise up and rebuke such a spirit?
MRS. G. S.

Write the Commission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Let every gas consumer in the city of St. Louis write to the Public Service Commission at Jefferson City and protest against the increase in gas rates sought after by the Laclede Gas Co. They state that unless they get the rate applied for they will be insolvent. How long have the people got to put up with such pleas?
ONE WHO HAS WRITTEN.

MR. HOUSTON'S TAX PLAN.

Secretary Houston's recommendation for a distinction between income that is spent and income that is saved, with a lower tax rate on the latter, seems attractive.

A plan based on that of some foreign governments has been urged which would make a distinction between income earned and income derived from investments, with the higher rate on the latter. Mr. Houston's plan is more likely, from the theoretical viewpoint, to encourage economies, tend to amplified credit resources through larger bank deposits and stimulate the purchase of securities. Enforcement of the tax might be another matter. What facilities would special Treasury agents have for checking up on the amounts an income-tax payer said was saved and was spent?

The necessity for a continuance of very heavy Federal taxation for a long time to come is generally recognized and the public is more or less reconciled to burdensome rates. Some of the forms in which this heavy taxation would be levied, if the Secretary's suggestions are adopted, are certain, however, to cause a shock. He proposes an increase from 4 to 6 per cent in the tax paid by the unexempted portion of the first $5000 in income, that is, on the portion in excess of $2000 plus $200 for each dependent less than 18 years of age.

It is the consumers with $5000 or less upon whom the packers, the coal men, the shoe men, the manufacturers and dealers in great numbers of other necessities, the swarm of middlemen generally, at present shift their own income taxes through increased prices for their products, plus their profits. Tens of thousands to whom the increase will apply are debt-harassed men of large families and incomes less than $5000, to whom the problem of maintenance means continuous struggle.

Great numbers of this lowest of all classes of income-tax payers also bear a heavy State income tax. In Missouri, for instance, an income tax of 2 per cent must be paid with no greater exemptions than the Federal laws provide. Now it is proposed that 2 per cent be added to the Federal tax on such incomes, making 8 per cent in all to Federal and State Governments.

Along with this recommendation for a 33 1/3 increase on the first $5000 in income is a recommendation for a reduction in the rate paid by the very highest increments of large incomes—the incomes running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The latter recommendation is dictated by very practical considerations in revenue-raising. The tax on the highest increments is now so heavy that it is said to tend to investment in tax-exempt securities, thus reducing revenue receipts from that source.

But the Secretary presents nothing showing that that tendency would be decreased by lowering the tax. The rush to the tax-exempt securities market might be as great with a tax of approximately 50 per cent on higher increments as with a tax of approximately 70 per cent. The rush to that market of the $5000 class will probably create no difficult problem. After paying their income taxes they will have little left for tax-exempt investments, despite Mr. Houston's theoretical inducement for saving.

The entire increase in revenue from this tax and from a tax on gasoline and a license tax on automobiles is estimated at only $341,000,000, much less than the annual interest on the debt owed us by foreign governments, which interest has been remitted for three years. Though seldom referred to, this remission of interest should be considered when the enormous resources which America is generously diverting from domestic uses to foreign benefit are summed up.

The only important Federal taxes abolished are those on ice cream and excess profits, the one about as approved a source of revenue as the other, but Mr. Houston's scheme seems to present nothing for increased simplicity in Federal taxes. On the contrary his many new taxes, his increased taxes on corporate and individual incomes and other things, his doubled taxes on the simple amusements of the people seem to add vastly to the intricacies and complications of the Federal revenue system.

He recommends increased taxes, doubled taxes in some cases, on sales of motor vehicles except trucks, on musical instruments, on candy, on perfumes, even on medicines for the sick and on unfortunate. It suggests whether a small tax on all sales might not be preferable to his jumbled list. Such a tax is objectionable in that it may be collected several times on the sale of the same article in its transit from producer to retailer. But it at least is easy to collect and makes for simplicity and lessened confusion.

The danger is that such a scheme as Mr. Houston proposes may cause a revulsion in favor of the Republicans' archaic tariff scheme as the lesser of two tax evils.

BRUCE CAMERON ALSO INNOCENT.

The case against Mr. McCulloch having been dismissed by Judge Patterson of Springfield on the ground that burglary is not burglary when referendum petitions are the subject of larceny, it was perhaps logical that the case involving the same charge against Bruce Cameron should be nolle prossed.

However, ever since Sept. 7 the public has hoped that, for the credit of Missouri, some way might be found by which the extraordinary ruling might authoritatively be set aside, even if all the defendants were freed. After the mature deliberation that has been possible for him, might not Judge Patterson have made a different ruling in the second case? If he adhered to his former decision, might he not have affirmed it in such a manner as make possible a review by the Supreme Court?

To the increased lustre of Missouri jurisprudence, the old ruling that the omission of the article "the" invalidates an indictment has been disavowed and repudiated, but it took 11 years to do it. Must the shadow of the astonishing Patterson ruling hang over our courts that long?

ELECTION REFORM PRINCIPLES.

In determining the reforms necessary to assure honest elections, the principles underlying elections should be kept in mind and the laws and practices should be brought into conformity with them.

The fundamental principle is the protection of the ballot box from all fraud or improper influences without regard to party or personal interest. The public interest in elections is paramount.

Hitherto the law has been manipulated for the purpose of giving party organizations, especially the dominant party organization, the advantage over the public.

The first necessity is to break the power of party committees in the control of primary or general elections through the selection of judges and clerks of election. The election commission should be required to appoint and organize a competent corps of judges and clerks from available material in any part of the city and retain them under probation.

The opportunity for registration should be open at all times under safeguards as to the identity, legality and voting status of registrants. A card index system in the Election Commissioners' office, with careful revision, is preferable to holding general registration days. The object of this plan is to offer every qualified voter an opportunity to register and vote, and to eliminate all fraud.

All elections should be brought under the general election laws with similar safeguards and penalties for fraud and improper or corrupt practices.

Proof of election by fraud should invalidate the election. The penalties of crime should be visited upon those responsible for it and its beneficiaries.

One of the principal labors of those who will frame the election laws should be their simplification. The election system should be simple, not complex, and the laws should be clear and direct.

Mr. Bryan, it will be remembered, wanted Mr. Wilson to resign, but Senator Norris thinks the President should be impeached. Is it the climate of Nebraska that makes them get that way?

ANOTHER LEAGUE ILLUSION PUNCTURED.

The Geneva conference has punctured another illusion which was served repeatedly during the late presidential campaign, and always with garnishings of bombast. "Shall the United States sit in a body with one vote where Great Britain has six?" was hurled at us by senatorial lips from a thousand stumps. Explanations that the British Empire's six votes were in the assembly whose jurisdiction was limited did not placate our chauvinists who were determined that we should have as many votes as any other country in any department of the League's organization, or we wouldn't play.

Well, it has transpired that Great Britain's crafty, diabolical six votes in the assembly do not, as a matter of fact, exist. To a program, proposed by England's delegates, for dealing with matters of finance, health and transportation, Canada has vehemently objected, and Australia stands with Canada.

"Fifty thousand Canadian soldiers under the sod in Europe is the price Canada has paid for European statesmanship," exclaimed Newton Wesley Rowell, the Canadian delegate, and Canada refuses further to follow blindly such leadership.

The incident amply proves that the free, independent dominions of the British Empire are not mere echoes of the central government. The jingoistic Kipling, even, sensed that fact long ago, with his "Daughter am I in my mother's house but mistress of my own." European or British domination of the League is a bogey which Canada has bowled over.

There is much friction as the new machinery is being put into operation. Many adjustments will have to be made, much sheer experimenting done, before it functions smoothly. But function smoothly it eventually will and when that condition is achieved the League of Nations will be a chartered institution for redressing the just grievances of every people.

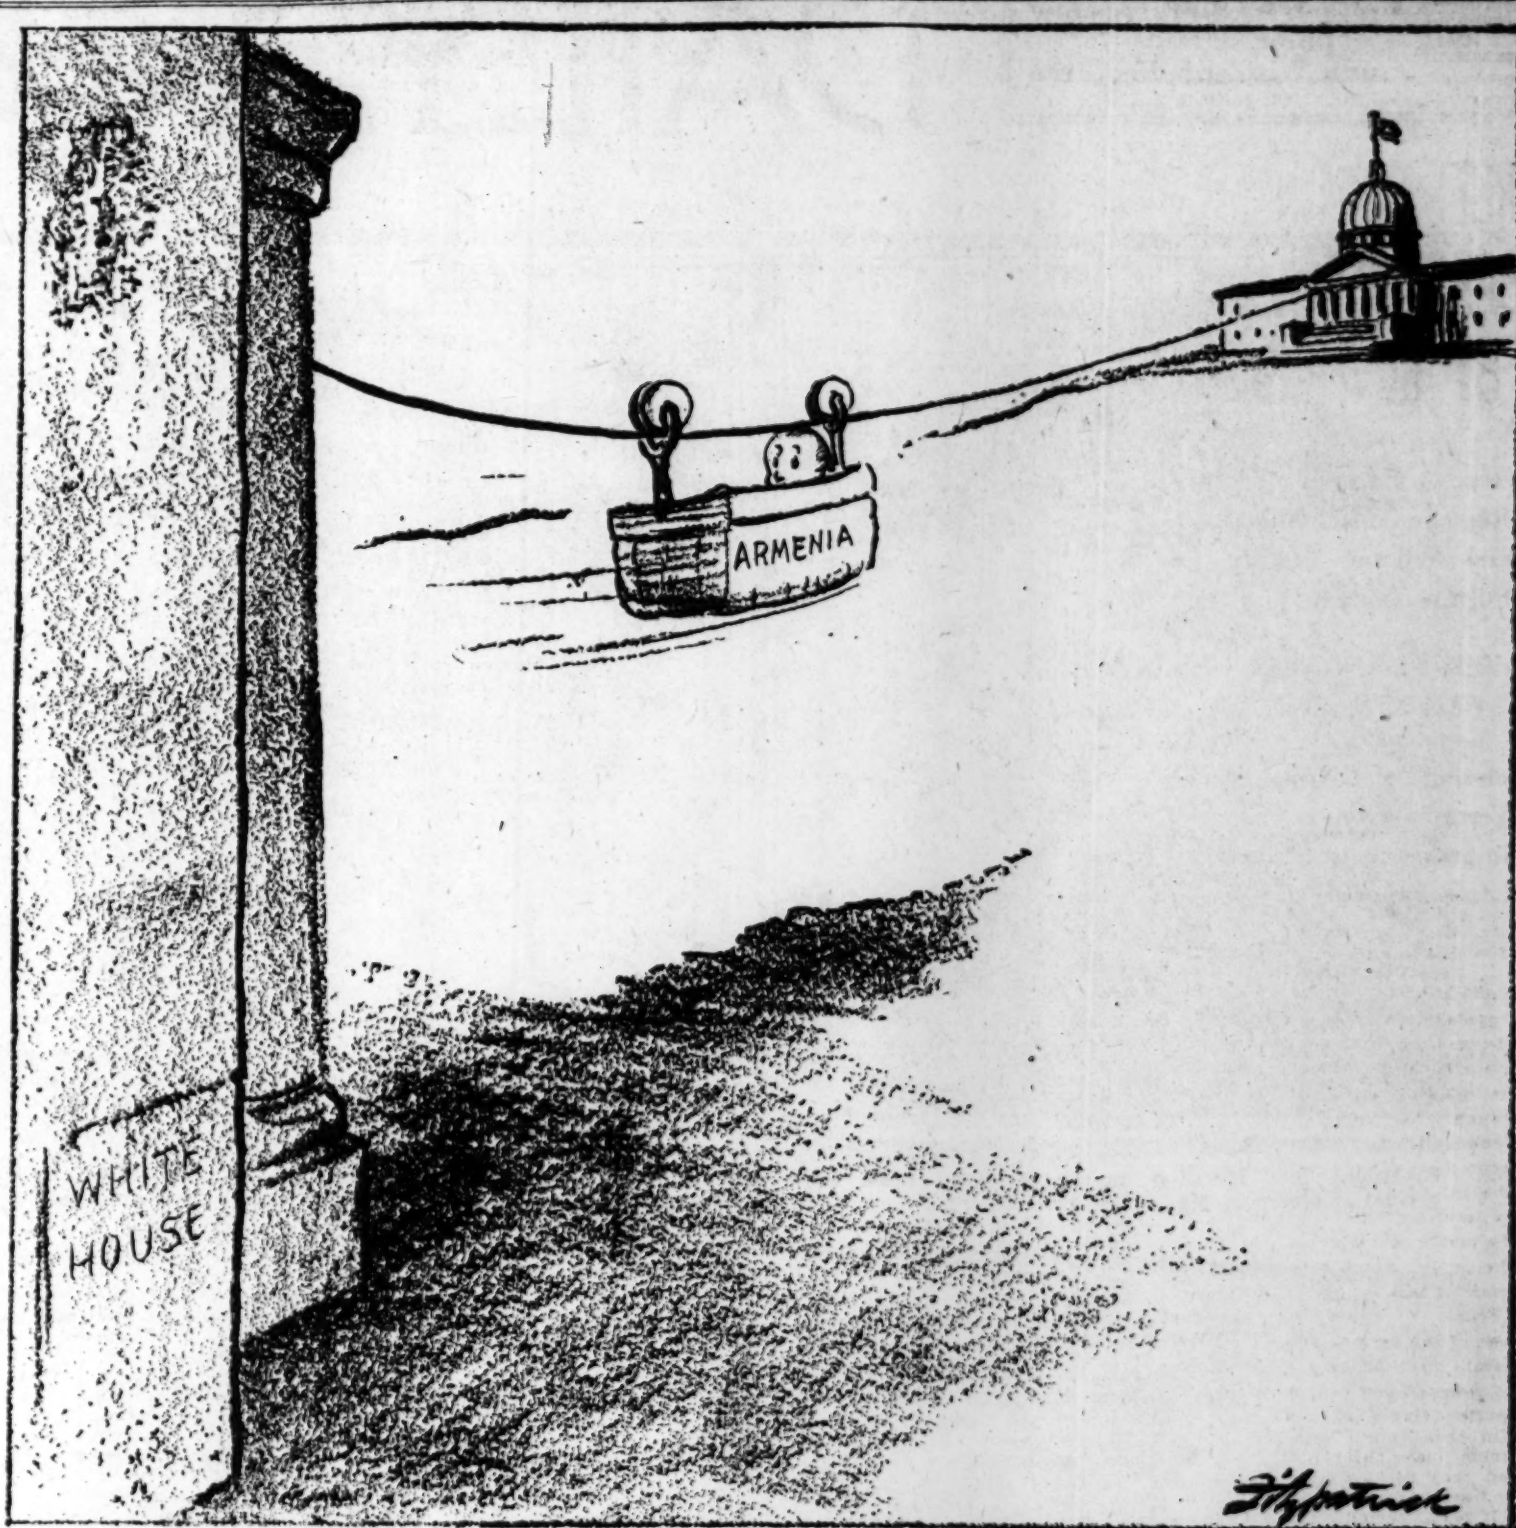

President-elect Harding says he is willing to discuss the League of Nations with President Wilson. Despite a balmy, almost sultry, winter, the flaming hatreds of the war are cooling.

England is said to be agitated lest Lord Byron's ancestral halls be purchased by an American. Westward the course of empire and every other blooming thing takes its way.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"I CANNOT recall another time when I was so curious about Congress as I have been of late," Mr. Antwerp said. "A great deal has been said about getting done things that need to be got done, and it seemed that a great sigh of relief went up when the Democrats were utterly relieved of every responsibility in the emergency. The Democrats, it was charged, were doing none of those things which everybody had in mind as needing so urgently to be done, and the average man's impression was that not a wheel would turn in the right direction until the Republicans took hold of the situation."

"Very well. The Democrats are out, or will be out very shortly. The Republicans, so to speak, are reconstructing to do. What are the things they are going to do? I have never seen these things precisely stated. There appears to be a vagueness about them not quite consistent with the great determination to get them done. I notice that one Republican said the other day of the President's message that it had anticipated most of the Republican program of reconstruction, but I couldn't believe it. Certainly the Republicans have more of a reconstruction program than was outlined in the President's message. If they have not, the necessity for getting them in power so they could put their program over must have been exaggerated a little."

"We must not forget that the present Congress is a Republican Congress. We must also recall that it had power to put over a reconstruction program, barring possible disagreement with an opposition President not known to be unreasonable about any good thing coming over from the capitol. Not much was said in the recent campaign of the present Congress and its failure to do the things which everybody seemed to have in mind, and I often wondered about it. It seemed to me that the Republican Congress we already had and have had for two years ought to be related in some slight way to what was expected of the next Republican Congress, but no one mentioned it."

"You have probably guessed that I have a suspicion. That is correct. I suspect that the Republicans have no reconstruction program except in so far as it applies to the reconstruction of the party. Look the situation over carefully, and see if you cannot share that suspicion with me. The country feels that the Republicans are going to do great things for it, but I fear they are only going to do great things for the party. If I am wrong about that, kindly remind me some time after the next Congress has had its chance."

The President is in a better humor than Senator Lodge. That is what we make of comparing their utterances. Maybe we have all been mistaken and there is no happiness in gratifying a grudge.

Before we adopt Secretary Houston's suggestion and increase taxes on small incomes, would it not be a good idea to ascertain how many people with small incomes have been able to pay the income taxes we have now?

Mr. Wilson said nothing about the League of Nations in his message to Congress. He seems to feel that the league is speaking for itself, which is the way we feel about it.

SIN—ICISM.
The altruist speaks of the women he has met; the average man speaks of the women who have met him. I am an average man. The diplomat is the man who declares himself against cosmetics and then uses his feminine listener's powder puff on his nose. In the presence of some men a woman's smile is more often the result of a beauty hint than of a desire to signify pleasure. Woman claims superiority over man because she recognizes the frailty he displays in asking her to become his wife.

Wives are of two kinds: those who call attention to their husbands' faults in public and those who believe their husbands have no faults.

The height of futility is attempting to chide an enamored man.

The most blissful ignorance is that of a jealous man whose dancing partner smiles over his shoulder at her lover.

When a man expresses his dislike for an attractive woman, it's for one of two reasons: he either failed to impress her with his importance or he made a mess of breaking through her crowd of admirers.

Heaven: A man and a beautiful woman in a taxicab.

Hell: A man and two beautiful women in a taxicab.

A DAY OF THE INDIAN SUMMER.
A day of golden beauty. Through the night the hoar-frost gathered, o'er each leaf and spray

Weaving its filmy network; thin and bright, And shimmering like silver in the ray Of the soft sunny morning; turf and tree

Frantic in its delicate embroidery. And every withered stump and mossy stone, With gems incrustured and with seed pearl sown;

While in the hedge the frosted berries glow, The scarlet holly and the purple sloe, And all is gorgeous, fairy-like and frail

As the famed gardens of the Arabian tale.

How soft and still the autumnal landscape lies, Calmly outspread beneath the smiling skies; As if the earth, in prodigal array

Of gems and brocaded robes kept holiday; Her harvest yielded and her work all done, Basking in beauty 'neath the autumn sun.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

WHY TAXES ARE HIGH.

From the Giles County (Tenn.) Record.
IT is no wonder that this country is troubled. Tax-ridden and all around in a sorry mess. A half dozen salaried revenue officers go 100 miles to bust up a $20 outfit. A "special" revenue agent comes around to see about your privilege (as if you had any privilege) taxes. An auditor comes from Nashville, Memphis or Honolulu and "checks up" two officers at the courthouse and leaves the others for the County Court to look after. Another fellow "comes down the pike" in his sedan to see if the country merchant has six bottles of vaseline and if he has six United States stamps to put on 'em. An "alcohol and wine" man comes to the drugstore to see if he is 14 names "short" on his registration. And another "narcotic man" comes along to see about the paragon. And another one comes a few days later to "check up" on the morphine, opium, etc. And the one-horse country merchant gets a questionnaire about his stock of patent medicines that it would puzzle a Philadelphia (or Pulaski) lawyer to fill out. And so on ad infinitum, ad nauseum and ad nux vomica or any other darn thing you care to, but it is all so, and then some. And I repeat, in all sincerity, that it is no wonder that the "Guvment" gets busted out $65 days ($66 leap years) in the calendar year from Cape Cod to Kalamazoo, and from Tadamer in the Wilderness to Tuba Dam, Ariz.

WATTERSON ON JOURNALISM.

"MARSE HENRY" in Philadelphia Public Ledger.
SOMEONE complained recently that reporting appeared today to be a lost art. To this Col. Watterson emphatically takes exception, declaring the newspaper of the moment cannot be excelled in the matter of collecting and presenting news. "Where is there anything to compare with it?" he demanded. "Every morning at breakfast I read not only everything of importance that has happened in my own town, in my own State, in my own country, but throughout all the world. In what business field do they work faster and produce more substantial results than in the modern newspaper office? I was born next door to a print shop and grew up in a newspaper office. First and last, I have filled every newspaper function, from galley boy to leader writer. I am proud of my calling and jealous of its good name. No game like it in all the world. A high calling—no man can attain a higher sphere of usefulness—must withal good sport, life, adventure, color, travel, temperament and all that." Take it from "Marse" Henry, the best way into the editorial chair is by way of the local room. The best editors are those who have come up from the ranks of "cub" reporters sparring for "scoops."

AFFAIRS IN CHINA.

JOHN O. P. BLAND in Asia for November.
AND so, after eight years of the republic, China has come to a condition of affairs which causes most of her people to sigh for the comparatively honest days of the Empress Dowager. Neither of the so-called governments of the North and the South makes any attempt to govern. Ed- uation, which was to be the republic's first care, is now either completely neglected or left to the initiative of public-spirited scholars and local gentry. With the exception of the customs, post-office and salt revenues (collected under the supervision of foreigners), which form the security for China's foreign debts, the central Government draws little or no money from the provinces. As regards such internal matters as the administration of justice, regulation of trade, opium-growing and military equipment, each province goes its independent way, either asserting complete rights of autonomy or maintaining polite regulations with the capital, as each Governor may think fit. The Northern provinces, whose Governors support the nominal authority of Peking, in return for subsidies in cash, are to a certain extent united against the Southern Tschuns; that is to say, they would join forces to prevent the Cantonese clique from ousting and replacing Tuan and his friends.

Spending of $400,000 for Terminal Construction and Improvements at East St.

the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Continued operation by the Government of the barge lines on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers, to the end that their money-making capacity shall be thoroughly demonstrated before they are relinquished to private interests, is recommended in the annual report of the Inland and Coastwise Waterways Service of the War Department, made public last night.

The report, which covers the fiscal year ended last June 30, is submitted by Frank T. Hines, who was in charge of the service, as a Brigadier-General, on that date. Hines has since resigned and been succeeded by Brigadier-General W. D. Connor.

"On the lower Mississippi and Warrior," says the report, "it is believed that the governmental functions have in no sense been completed. It seems certain from the record of operations on these waterways during almost two years that an organization has been completed which with the delivery of the newer types of equipment, will insure operations on a satisfactory financial basis."

Further Federal Development.
Further development of these lines by the Federal Government, however, will be required until such time as the more important elements of tariffs, terminal facilities and operations shall have been refined and co-ordinated, and these sections actually found to be prosperous and profitable transportation lines. When such a point has been reached it is believed to be proper to relinquish the operation of these sections to private enterprise.

"The report states, however, that even after the lines pass into private hands, the Government should continue to give them direct assistance, with the object of maintaining equitable tariff and interchange agreements between the waterways and the railroads, and of providing types of waterway equipment maintaining navigable channels, and developing adequate terminal facilities. In addition, it is stated, the Government should insulate the opening of new waterway routes as arteries of traffic under private enterprise.

Best Test Not Possible.
"Existing tariffs," it states, "do not make possible the best test of the use of the national waterways in actual co-ordination with the nation's Government-guaranteed rail lines. Present tariffs do, within a very restricted territory, make it possible for a shipper to start freight by rail, and have the transportation completed by water, or to begin by water and end by railroad. No shipper, however, is at present enabled to commence his transportation by rail, have it transferred on route to the barge service and finally have the transportation completed by rail."

Comprehensive applications, it is stated, have been filed with the railroads for the establishment of "rail-river-and-rail" rates on all the commodities which the Mississippi-Warrior service can handle, with the intention of bringing the whole matter before the Interstate Commerce Commission for adjustment if the attitude of the railroads is unfavorable.

The report sets forth the pressing need of more adequate terminals for the interchange of freight between the railroads and the barge lines. Until the proper provision is made for the handling of such freight, the reports says, it will be impossible to show entirely satisfactory returns either in service or earnings. For general terminal construction, and improvements on the Lower Mississippi, it is urged that $2,000,000 be provided, of which $400,000 would be spent at East St. Louis, $600,000 at Memphis, $400,000 at Vicksburg and $400,000 at New Orleans, as a loan to the dock board of that city.

Operations on the Lower Mississippi, it is pointed out, have thus far been with makeshift equipment only

President's Letter Declining to Take Part in Armament Council

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.

THE United States, not being a member of the League of Nations, cannot participate in the deliberations of the league council or of any commission acting under the council. President Wilson has declined in declining the council's invitation to appoint American representatives to sit on the council's commission on the reduction of armaments.

The President's decision was embodied in a communication sent yesterday by Acting Secretary of State Davis to Paul Hymans, president of the league council.

Sympathy, however, was expressed by the President "with any sincere effort to evolve a constructive plan for disarmament which is so necessary for the economic rehabilitation, peace and stability of the world."

The communication sent to M. Hymans follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your cablegram of Dec. 1, inviting the Government of the United States to and are in no way representative of what can be done with modern towboats and barges, proper terminals and inclusive tariffs.

The revenues per ton of freight carried are said to have shown gratifying gains, the average earnings on southbound freight having increased from $2.81 per ton during 1919 to $3.11 per ton during the first six months of 1920. Owing to poor equipment, however, the line had to desist from solicitation of high-grade merchandise for the upstream trip, and in consequence the average revenue per southbound ton showed a slight falling off. The report adds that with towboats on the line making large quantities of these high-grade commodities can be secured.

The popular conception of a barge line as suitable only for the handling of coarse freights is disproved, the report says, by the widely diversified character of the commodities tendered for transportation on the Mississippi. Each of the tows, it is stated, carries thousands of diverse packages of every description, the proper classification of which is a matter of great importance.

"Much of the expenditure," the report says, "has been necessary to maintain an ill-assorted fleet of overtaxed equipment in operation to maintain a regular service irrespective of results in revenue. There have, however, been material deficits, the report says, by the wide diversified character of the commodities tendered for transportation on the Mississippi. Each of the tows, it is stated, carries thousands of diverse packages of every description, the proper classification of which is a matter of great importance.

"The report states, however, that even after the lines pass into private hands, the Government should continue to give them direct assistance, with the object of maintaining equitable tariff and interchange agreements between the waterways and the railroads, and of providing types of waterway equipment maintaining navigable channels, and developing adequate terminal facilities. The President of the United States is deeply interested in this question, and is most desirous of co-operating to this end, but as the Government of the United States is not a member of the league, he does not feel justified in appointing a commission to take even a de facto participation in the deliberations of the council or of the commission acting on behalf of the council in the execution of provisions in the covenant of the League of Nations."

WOMEN FOR SCHOOL BOARD PROPOSED

Wednesday Club Calls Convention to Plan Action for Representation.

A convention of women has been called by the Wednesday Club for next Monday at 3 p. m. in the Wednesday Club auditorium, 4506 Westminister place, to consider and outline concerted action toward obtaining the selection of women for members of the Board of Education.

Every organization of women in the city was invited in the call issued yesterday to send one delegate for each 50 members, or part thereof. It is expected that the meeting will select a number of women to be recommended to the Republican and Democratic conventions which will name candidates for the board. Four Republican members and one Democratic member of the board, which is constituted on a bipartisan basis to the mass of the city, are to be elected in the spring.

George W. Strodman, chairman of the Republican City Committee, said today, when told of the action of the Wednesday Club, that he believed that the women were entitled to equal representation with the men in the Board of Education, and that he would urge the Republican convention to name women as two of its four candidates.

Two Republican women yesterday were given the approval of the Wednesday Club. Mrs. B. F. Bush, wife of the mayor of the city, and Mrs. George W. Strodman, who was active in the work of the Food Administration here during the war.

The Wednesday Club, which has a membership of 550, named 10 delegates to the mass meeting Monday as follows: Mrs. Henry Butler, Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd, Mrs. Ernest Kroeger, Mrs. Clay Jordan, Mrs. E. C. Rowse, Miss Nellie Richards, Mrs. Washington Fishel, Mrs. J. W. Bray, Mrs. Edgar Rombauer, Miss Bella Tausig, Miss Mildred McClure.

The Secretary described in detail the operation of the Government barge lines on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers.

"There is no reason to expect that rail rates can be lowered in the near future," he said, "and while it is no doubt true that the efficiency of the service is increasing since the return of the railroads to their owners for operation, yet they will not be able to meet the increasing demands made upon them."

"The farmers stand to lose billions of dollars by reason of the slump in the prices of farm products. There is great demand for our surplus cotton and foodstuffs. Not only is the lack of facilities to extend long-time credits of concern to the farmers, but, if such credits are provided, the price the farmer will receive for his products will be very seriously affected by the high costs of transportation."

"All will agree that if we would build up and maintain a great American merchant marine we must develop a great foreign trade. The two go hand in hand. The Department of Commerce is deeply interested in both propositions, hence my concern as regards the transportation facilities of the Mississippi Valley, for there the situation seems to be most acute."

WATERWAYS NEEDED TO BUILD UP FOREIGN TRADE

Secretary of Commerce Alexander Says Centers Must Be Brought Nearer to the Sea.

TRANSPORTATION MUST BE CHEAPER

Relation of Inland Waterways to Merchant Marine Discussed Before Rivers Congress.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—American foreign trade will be seriously handicapped unless, cheaper and more adequate means of transportation are provided to bring the great inland centers of industry nearer to the sea, Secretary of Commerce J. W. Alexander told the annual National Rivers and Harbors Congress yesterday in an address on the relation of the inland waterways to the merchant marine.

The great projects already undertaken for improving transportation both by rail and by water should be carried forward consistently without unnecessary interruption, Secretary Alexander declared. It would be a short-sighted policy, he said, that would postpone the utilization of the Mississippi River and other navigable waterways. Special consideration should be given to waterway development, he asserted, by the states lying in the Mississippi Valley.

Points Out Absolute Need.
The country is confronted with an "absolute need," according to the Secretary, of reducing transportation costs to the lowest possible levels, in order that there may be free distribution of commodities from one community to another and from the interior to the sea coast.

Unless the present charges of transporting goods to the coast are reduced materially, he said, America will not be able to compete effectively with her rivals in the world's markets. The problem of getting cheap rates, he continued, is an ever-present one, pressing for solution by the Government, the railroads and other trade organizations of the Mississippi Valley.

Though greater efficiency in the operation of the railroads was forced by the speaker, he said the "cold fact" remained that rates had been tremendously increased since July, 1914. It has even been claimed, he said, that at the present high levels the rates are not sufficient to pay 6 per cent interest on the capital investment.

Farm Products Affected.
To show how agricultural products have been affected he gave figures showing that export rates for St. Louis to New York, per 100 pounds, have increased on corn and wheat from 22 cents in September, 1914, to 45 cents at present, and on fresh meat from 50 cents to $1.03 1/2.

From St. Louis to San Francisco the increase on corn has been from 60 cents to 91 1/2 cents; on wheat, from 75 to 91 1/2; and on fresh meat from $2 to $3.33 1/2.

The Secretary described in detail the operation of the Government barge lines on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers.

"There is no reason to expect that rail rates can be lowered in the near future," he said, "and while it is no doubt true that the efficiency of the service is increasing since the return of the railroads to their owners for operation, yet they will not be able to meet the increasing demands made upon them."

"The farmers stand to lose billions of dollars by reason of the slump in the prices of farm products. There is great demand for our surplus cotton and foodstuffs. Not only is the lack of facilities to extend long-time credits of concern to the farmers, but, if such credits are provided, the price the farmer will receive for his products will be very seriously affected by the high costs of transportation."

"All will agree that if we would build up and maintain a great American merchant marine we must develop a great foreign trade. The two go hand in hand. The Department of Commerce is deeply interested in both propositions, hence my concern as regards the transportation facilities of the Mississippi Valley, for there the situation seems to be most acute."

"The larger part of our surplus for export must come from this great region. The question is of vital interest not alone to that section, but to the whole country. Hence I am gratified to know that the great commercial, industrial and financial organizations affected are determined more than ever before to find an outlet to the sea, not only by the Mississippi River and its tributaries but by the Great Lakes as well."

KAHN SAYS HE HAS NO FEAR OF WAR WITH JAPAN

Chairman of House Military Committee Expresses Hope for Perpetual Peace Between Two Countries.

RESTATES BELIEF IN UNIVERSAL TRAINING

Asserts Sale Objection of People of Pacific Coast Is to Japanese Laboring Class and Not Racial Prejudice.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Discussing the Japanese question freely and frankly in a carefully prepared address delivered today in the House, Representative Kahn of California, chairman of the Military Committee, declared that America hoped always to avoid war, and that if the statesmen, the publicists and the politicians, the agitators and the demagogues of Japan "really wanted war with the United States they would be the ones to bring it on, and not the Americans."

Kahn said he knew that he voiced "the earnest hope and wish of every patriotic American that peace between the two countries may continue perpetually." "But the world," he said, "has only recently learned that we are not too proud to fight, nor are we afraid to fight when we are forced into war."

Reaffirming Training Views.
The Military Committee chairman took occasion to reaffirm his belief that a universal military training policy would be a safeguard of the country, and added:

"I have no fear that there will be war between Japan and the United States in my lifetime, nor even the lifetime of my sons. And I am thoroughly satisfied that if my country remain neutrally prepared to meet the danger of a sudden attack by the nations at any time."

Kahn briefly reviewed the history of the relations between the United States and Japan and with regard to the Japanese immigration problem said that the subject of the two Governments, said students of international law everywhere had recognized the "absolute right" of any nation to regulate immigration as it deemed best. Even Japanese students were familiar with this point, he said, and added:

"It is therefore most unfortunate that a constant agitation regarding the matters is maintained by our neighbor across the Pacific, because the final effect of such propaganda and agitation undoubtedly is to install a pronounced hatred of America and Americans among the masses in Japan."

Unfortunate Condition.
"This is a decidedly unfortunate condition of affairs. Indeed, I say it is a most serious condition—a condition that may result, unfortunately, in grave difficulties between two friendly nations."

"Surely," Kahn said, "the head of the Peace Society of Japan does not advocate the taking up of arms against the United States as indicated in the newspaper articles."

The speaker said "many public officials in Japan," as well as political agitators, had "tried to make the world believe" that opposition to immigration of Japanese laborers into the United States was "based upon racial prejudice."

"We of the Pacific coast deny that this is the case," he declared. "No objection has ever been made to the admission into this country of Japanese professional men, of Japanese financiers, or Japanese religious teachers or leaders or bonafide Japanese merchants or Japanese students or Japanese travelers. The sole objection is to the laboring class."

"Whether the undesirable be farmer laborers, skilled mechanics or unskilled coolies, I contend that the objection is purely an economic one and not a racial one."

Japan, he said, is doing all that she claims is racial hate or prejudice when done by us to Japanese laborers.

Quotes Count Okuma.
Kahn called attention to newspaper dispatches quoting Count Okuma, head of the Japanese Peace Society, as having said that if the United States restricted Japanese immigration by statute instead of by voluntary action of Japan, the latter rather than "suffer such prejudice to her prestige, must resort to force."

Former Kaiser Reported Living in High Style

Employs Six Cooks, 12 Charwomen and Other Servants to the Total of Approximately 50 at Doorn Castle.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 28.—Revelations in the Prussian State legislature at Berlin of the sums of money which the former German Emperor has been permitted to draw from Germany during the past two years, together with the announcement that the Dutch Government will pay him for an annual income of 1,300,000 guilders, have caused the burghers of Doorn to speculate as to what he does with all this money. (Nominally a guilder is worth 40 cents.)

From Germany the former Emperor is said to have drawn 1,000,000 guilders, equivalent at present rates of exchange to 11,133,000 German marks; also the proceeds of the sale of some of his property in the Wilhelmstrasse, said to be 40,000,000 marks. Besides all this income, the Prussian Government has contributed additionally to the furnishing of his new house at Doorn.

Lives in High Style.
For a long time William complained of being financially embarrassed. Now, however, according to the people of Doorn, he appears to be living in high style.

Not counting his marshal, Gen. von Gontard, and other members of his immediate suite, approximately 50 servants are now employed to keep up the house of Doorn. This does not include the workmen who are still engaged in various repairs about the house and grounds. There are 24 charwomen, who are kept busy polishing the floors, brass-work, and otherwise keeping the castle up to the standard of old German cleanliness demanded by the former Emperor, Augusta Victoria. They receive the equivalent of about a dollar a day. Part of them live in the castle.

In all, William now employs six cooks, who include a chef and an assistant living at the castle and four women who come in to work by the day. There are also a number of gardeners and personal servants.

Estimates on Pay to Retire.
To maintain this army of servants, whose average wages, the people of Doorn say, must be something more than a dollar a day, William pays in wages alone about $20,000 a year. Their upkeep costs him as much more and this does not include the high-salaried employees, like Gen. von Gontard, Capt. von Illseman, the "court physician," and secretaries, who must cost the ex-Emperor about $20,000 more.

During his 13 months' stay at the Bentinck castle, at Amerongen, William lived at the rate of about $325 daily. In his own estate he is believed to be spending much more.

In addition to buying the House of Doorn, he has had the house approximately $32,500 on a little hospital which he presented to the village of Amerongen.

zy of excitement by purely political happenings."

Kahn recalled the recent incident of Teintsin where American soldiers had been found in the Japanese police station by the American Consul. He said that the Japanese officers denied any knowledge of their whereabouts. This incident, he declared, was in a fair way of amicable adjustment between the Governments, adding:

"The American people have never become excited over the affair. You hear no threat of war on the part of American statesmen, politicians or even demagogues."

Program of Japan.
Publicists and authors reported, that Japan was "making every effort to unite the yellow races. That Japan under such a program hopes and expects to be the leader of such a race amalgamation that she is striving in every way to acquire and maintain the hegemony of the yellow nations."

"Are the Japanese trying to bring about the world-old conflict between the white races and the yellow and the brown races?" asked Kahn. "I sincerely hope not. But it is a question which the statesmen of all liberty-loving, democratic nations are bound to ask, and to study and bear constantly in mind."

"CABINET SYSTEM" OF STATE GOVERNMENT TO BE ORGANIZED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9.—At a conference here yesterday, Arthur H. Hyde, Governor-elect, Hiram Lloyd, Lieutenant-Governor-elect, and Republican State leaders, an agreement was reached on a tentative legislative program for reorganization of the departments of State Government under control of the Governor through appointments.

A "cabinet system" of government is to be organized by the new administration with eight general departments under which is to be grouped all the present scattered departments. The head of each department is to be called a commissioner, directly responsible to the Governor for acts of the subsidiary department chiefs. Details of the reorganization plan remain yet to be formulated. Work is to begin immediately in preparation of bills to carry the plan into effect. If possible, the bills will be drawn and agreed on before the Legislature convenes next month. The reorganization plan is part of Hyde's administrative activity of the State government is to be under one of these eight general subdivisions, with a commissioner in charge of each: Agriculture, penal institutions, State inspection, public welfare, education, finance, public works and budget.

A. C. McKibbin, director of publicity for the Republican State Committee here, explained the reorganization plan.

"The purpose mainly is to cut out lost motion and duplication, centralize responsibility and remove from the State payroll those appointed for political purposes and not for public service," he said. "The big reason behind the proposed reorganization, of course, is to reduce the number of State employees and to save the State money."

I. C. C. WOULD PAY RAILROADS AT ONCE UNDER GUARANTY

Annual Report Says Immediate Turning Over of Money Is Vital in Order for Carriers to Serve Public

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Immediate payment to the railroads of sums due them under the guaranty provisions of the transportation act, but withheld under the ruling of the Comptroller of the Treasury, was declared by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its annual report today to be "vital" in order that the carriers may properly serve the public. The commission recommended that Congress amend the railroad act to permit the release and payment to the roads of the money thus tied up.

Many of the roads are greatly handicapped because of their inability to collect the guaranty, the commission said. Although advances against the anticipated deficit were made in scores of instances, the report said, some of the roads made no application for aid prior to Sept. 1, and as a result they are estopped from claiming even a portion of money "justly due them" until the mechanical work of completing their audit for the entire guaranty period can be accomplished.

Ruling Holds Up Money.
The commission said that in most cases it could now determine "amounts or parts of amounts justly due the carriers," but that its certifications of these sums to the Treasury could not be honored by the Treasury since the Comptroller had ruled that such applications for advances must have been granted prior to Sept. 1. The commission believed it should be authorized to certify these "justly due them" to alleviate the difficulties confronting many carriers in meeting operating expenses and fixed charges.

TIME LIMIT ON DEBATE ON IMMIGRATION BILL

House Agrees on Four-Hour Discussion—Supporters Expect Passage Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—By almost unanimous vote the House today restricted general debate on the Johnson immigration bill to four hours, and advocates of the measure, which would stop all immigration for two years, were hopeful of passing it tomorrow.

Opening debate on the immigration question, Representative Campbell, chairman of the Rules Committee, declared that unless "the floodgates are closed, the standard of living will be lowered, unemployment already estimated at 2,000,000 men, will run rampant and the wage scales will be destroyed."

Provisions of the immigration bill which comes up for debate today, are opposed as unnecessary, injurious to the public welfare and constituting a reversal of the "historic policy of the country" in a minority report of the Immigration Committee, signed by Representatives Siegel of New York and Sabath of Illinois.

The bill's proposal for a practical suspension of all immigration for a period of two years, the report declared, is unwarranted both as to present labor conditions in this country and the number of immigrants arriving. Whereas prior to 1914 the total immigration frequently exceeded 1,000,000 per year, it was pointed out, the total for the first 11 months of this year was only 840,000, with a total of 346,945 emigrants to balance against that figure.

Declaring the immigration figures and general conditions showed there was no occasion for the "extraordinary haste manifested" in the attempt to pass the bill, the report asserted there was no evidence to support the contention of the committee majority that a "state of unemployment exists, except sporadically and voluntarily." Estimates contained in the majority report that from two to eight million Europeans were seeking to emigrate to this country, were dismissed as "idle" and totally without supporting evidence.

Declaring "offensive allusions" were made in the majority report in its discussion of the question of Jewish immigration, the report added: "We would not refer to these allusions were it not for the fact that there has recently been conducted a secret and malicious propaganda designed to arouse prejudice against the Jews in various parts of the United States."

ONLY "KICKED BY WHITE MULE"

When a Belleville policeman responded to the excited call of a woman who stated that a man had been hit by an automobile on North Fifteenth street and was dying on the sidewalk, he found Samuel Engelage, a hodgecarrier, sprawled out on the sidewalk.

"Were you hit by an auto?" inquired the patrolman.

"No, I was kicked by a white mule," said Engelage.

He was fined $10 and costs by a Justice on a plea of guilty. The authorities are after the man who sold him the whisky, following information given by Engelage.

COMPTROLLER'S RULING IN WAY

Amendment of Transportation Act Recommended to Permit Payment and to Stop Bribing of Employees.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Immediate payment to the railroads of sums due them under the guaranty provisions of the transportation act, but withheld under the ruling of the Comptroller of the Treasury, was declared by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its annual report today to be "vital" in order that the carriers may properly serve the public. The commission recommended that Congress amend the railroad act to permit the release and payment to the roads of the money thus tied up.

Many of the roads are greatly handicapped because of their inability to collect the guaranty, the commission said. Although advances against the anticipated deficit were made in scores of instances, the report said, some of the roads made no application for aid prior to Sept. 1, and as a result they are estopped from claiming even a portion of money "justly due them" until the mechanical work of completing their audit for the entire guaranty period can be accomplished.

Ruling Holds Up Money.
The commission said that in most cases it could now determine "amounts or parts of amounts justly due the carriers," but that its certifications of these sums to the Treasury could not be honored by the Treasury since the Comptroller had ruled that such applications for advances must have been granted prior to Sept. 1. The commission believed it should be authorized to certify these "justly due them" to alleviate the difficulties confronting many carriers in meeting operating expenses and fixed charges.

The year's rail operations have developed the need of several other changes in laws, the commission said. It urged Congress to amend the Interstate Commerce act, to provide for the punishment of any person "offering or giving to an employee of a carrier subject to the act any money or thing of value with intent to influence his action or decision with respect to car service and also to provide for the punishment of the guilty employee."

Would Bar Wooden Coaches.
Appropriate legislation governing the transportation of explosives was asked for, as were changes in laws affecting the awarding of reparations for damages to railroads. The commission held, however, that the matter of the adjudication of courts.

The menace of wooden passenger coaches was set forth as another subject for legislative action, the commission urging that the roads be compelled to use steel cars in all passenger train service and prohibited from using wooden cars between or in front of steel coaches.

Referring to the question of bribery of railroad employees, the commission said:

"As a result of the inadequacy of the car supply and of railroad transportation facilities generally during the past year, a practice has grown up among shippers of bribing operating employees of railroad companies in order to obtain transportation services. The demoralizing effects of this practice are far-reaching. Bribery of this character in many instances cannot be directly and effectively reached under existing laws."

6495 Killed by Trains.
While the traffic has increased, the commission's figures show, the net operating income has suffered a continuous decline since 1917. The commission attributed this to heavier maintenance costs in which war taxation figured. Incomplete statistics, however, made it impossible for the commission to make an accurate comparison between the years 1917 and 1920, and it made no attempt to estimate the figures for any portion of the year.

The commission's accident table discloses that 6495 persons were killed by trains in train service accidents during the year of 1919. Of these, 1784, or more than 27 per cent, met death in grade-crossing accidents.

YOUTH, ARRESTED AFTER MURDER OF DRUGGIST, FREED

Grand Jury Finds No Evidence on Which to Indict Clarence Dunsford in Laumann Case.

The first degree murder charge against Clarence Dunsford, 22 years old, of 2760 Caroline street, was dismissed at the request of Assistant Circuit Attorney Feehan in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday when Dunsford was arraigned for a preliminary hearing.

Dunsford, in an information issued Oct. 7, last, was charged with shooting and killing William Laumann in an effort to rob Laumann's drug store, 2101 South Jefferson avenue, Sept. 24 last. The grand jury Tuesday took up the case, and after hearing several witnesses decided that there was no evidence on which to indict Dunsford.

The slayer of Laumann also shot Laumann's 10-year-old son, Francis, who has recovered and who was taken to the Circuit Attorney's office several days ago to view Dunsford, whom he failed to identify as the slayer.

After Dunsford's arrest several persons who were near the drug store when the shooting occurred said Dunsford "looked like" a man who ran from the drug store, but none could positively identify him. He denied the shooting and said he was at home when it occurred.

In December, 1918, Dunsford and Steve Koehler were arrested on a charge of holding up Patton W. Teel, a Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. collector, and stealing $1400 from him. Koehler was convicted and sentenced to serve 15 years. Dunsford pleaded guilty and appeared as a witness against Koehler. He was sentenced to two years in the Booneville Reformatory and was paroled last December.

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

CATARHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength) and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a try.

MONKEY GLAND GRAFTED INTO NECK OF "DUNGEON GIRL"

Physicians Hopeful of Success in Effort to Alleviate Arrested Development of Girl, 19.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Surgeons who grafted the thyroid gland of a monkey into the neck of Mary Zembek, 19-year-old "dungeon girl," refused today to predict success for their endeavor to alleviate her arrested development, but said they were strongly hopeful. The girl was hidden by her parents at Joliet, Ill., in a cellar from babyhood until a few months ago, and had the body and mentality of a child of 4 years. Physicians declared, when she was found.

The operation was performed by Dr. Max Thorek, head of the American Hospital; Dr. Sigismund Krumholz of Northwestern University and Dr. Alfred Klein of Joliet.

SALOON KEEPER ORDERED HELD FOR DEATH OF NEGRO

Coroner's Jury Action in Case of Clifford Perkins, Found Dead Near Place.

A Coroner's jury today held for the grand jury Dowell Gross, 23 years old, owner of a saloon at 3200 Franklin avenue, for the killing, Tuesday night, in the saloon, of Clifford Perkins, 34, a negro, who was found dead on the sidewalk half a block away.

The bartender and porter testified at the inquest that Perkins entered and ordered a drink, using offensive language. Gross called him into a rear room, in which a moment later two shots were fired, the witnesses said. Perkins ran out, and Gross emerged soon afterward, with a revolver in his hand, according to the testimony. Gross is under bond.

CONDUCTORS SAID TO ADMIT PLAN TO DEFAUD U. R.

Alleged Scheme to Use Spurious Tokens to Register as Pennies Thwarted by Arrest of Six Men.

Another scheme by conductors to defraud the United Railways of fares was disclosed yesterday afternoon by the arrest of six conductors, three of whom have confessed, according to the police, having made by a local stamping company 500 counterfeit tokens, somewhat larger than the genuine ones so that they would register as pennies, which they intended to use on their cars. The scheme was frustrated, however, by the arrest of one of the conductors a few minutes after he left the stamping company with the first supply.

After being questioned by the police and Barney Frauenthal, traffic manager of the United Railways, at Central Police Station, the conductors were released at the request of Frauenthal until further notice.

21 Arrested in 1919. Early in 1919 the United Railways dismissed 21 conductors for stealing by means of using mutilated nickels to register as pennies in the fare boxes, and several thousand of these mutilated coins were produced as evidence in the arbitration hearing of the cases of the men held upon demand of the street carmen's union. It was stated at that time by N. C. Mershon, chief spotter of the company, that the conductors had been stealing from $1200 to $1600 a day by means of the mutilated coins.

Since that time the company auditors or "spotters" have kept a persistent check on the conductors, and A. T. Perkins, manager for the receiver, recently told a Post-Dispatch reporter that thefts had been reduced to less than 25 fares a day.

Reported Confessions. According to the confessions of the three men yesterday the scheme was to make a counterfeit token the size of a penny so that it would register in the fare box as one cent, thus giving the conductor a "profit" of 6 cents on the fare, and was concocted about two months ago by a conductor on the Manchester line, who interested the five others.

This man at first told the others he was working on a slot machine invention, and needed capital. Two of the men loaned him $5 each, and later he is said to have asked them if they would take part in a scheme "to get" some tokens that would register as pennies. They agreed, as, according to the confessions, 10 or 12 other conductors agreed to purchase and use the spurious tokens. The names of these others were not mentioned in the confessions.

Had 500 Discs Made. Two of the men went to the local stamp manufacturing company and ordered 500 "metal discs with a horseshoe in the center, similar to United Railways tokens but the exact size of a penny." The cost, they were told, was to be $35 for 500, and $15 was paid on account.

About 10 days ago one of the men called for the tokens, the order having been left under the name of "John Smith." They were all ready, but a sample was given, which was kept until yesterday, the conductor, it is assumed, having used it to make sure of its proper operation.

Yesterday this man sent another man to the stamp company with $20 to get the 500 which had been reported ready for delivery. He left the place and walked to Sixth and Pine streets, where he was arrested by two special officers, who found the counterfeit tokens in his possession.

At Central Police Station he gave the names of the five others, who were also arrested. Two of them declared they had nothing to do with the scheme and knew nothing of it.

It appears from the confessions that the tokens were to be sold to the conductors at $1.25 for $4.75. The plan to profit by their use was to hand one of the spurious tokens to a passenger receiving change so that he would drop it in the fare box for a 7-cent fare. Because of its size it would register as a penny, thus giving the conductor 6 cents for himself on the transaction. In this manner he could reclaim the same token again and again.

The accused men were questioned at length this morning at the offices of the United Railways. Frauenthal said they pleaded for leniency, and that it had not been decided what action would be taken against them. He said none of the counterfeit tokens, as far as known, had been put in use by the men.

$1.50 A WEEK FOR COOKS IN HAITI

And They Are to Be Had Without Advertising.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch. PORT AU PRINCE, Nov. 24.—There is no high labor market in Haiti. The man working by the day gets one gourde, which is 20 cents, and sometimes a gourde and a half. Cooks are to be had without advertising. Most of them earn $1.50 a week, and in addition get 6 cents a day on which to feed themselves and their flock. One does not have to include car fare in the weekly wage down here.

At some points in the interior wages for cooks are even lower. Many of them live in mahogany houses at that.

Haiti's population is estimated at around 2,500,000. Ninety-seven per cent of these people are classed as illiterate.

STATEMENTS IN STRIKE OF TAILORS' CONFLICT

Union Secretary Says 20 Master Tailors Have Signed Up—
Other Side Denies It.

Abraham Hyatt, secretary of Journeymen Tailors' Union, Local 280, today said that 20 members of the Master Tailors' Association, which had established a co-operative shop after a clash with the union, had signed contracts with contracting tailors affiliated with the union.

On the other hand, Samuel L. Fox of 615 Pine street, president of the Master Tailors' Association, said that a committee of the association, investigating reports that members had signed up with the union, had found evidence of only one such contract, and that the tailor whose signature was attached had repudiated it as a forgery.

Says He Witnessed Signings.
"I know what I am talking about," said Hyatt, "because I witnessed the signing of the contracts. Furthermore, there are only 35 tailors in the Master Tailors' Association instead of 125, as Fox has been claiming. The Master Tailors' Association is composed of only popular-priced tailoring establishments and there are only 65 such shops in the city. The high-class tailors are affiliated with the Merchant Tailors' Association, which employs only members of Journeymen Tailors' Union, Local 11, which has a membership of about 900. Local 280 has a membership of 375.

The so-called co-operative shop is doing practically nothing. There are only a few seamstresses employed there, and they can accomplish nothing without the assistance of operators, pressers and finishers. Less than eight tailors affiliated with the Master Tailors' Association are sending work to the shop. Besides, this is the dull season, and there is not enough work to test the efficiency of the shop."

Says Only One Was Found.
"Hyatt is mistaken," said Fox. "Sixty popular-priced tailors have endorsed the association's proposition to employ workmen only on a weekly wage basis instead of by piecework, as was formerly done. A committee was appointed to investigate reports that our members were signing up with the union and only one contract of the kind could be found. In that case the tailor denied having signed it."

CLEAR YOUR COMPLEXION

Of the Unsightly Skin Blemishes

Use the Guaranteed BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment

Some people dislike to use face powder, creams or lotions. They cannot suffer the embarrassment of a dark, sallow, blotchy complexion. They therefore depend on powders and rouges to cover up or hide their embarrassing facial blemishes. Little realizing that the longer their use is continued the more aggravated the trouble becomes. Why don't you clear your complexion, remove those unsightly skin blemishes which so distress you? It's easy—no more trouble than applying cold cream to your face. You cleanse the skin with Black and White Soap just before retiring and then apply Black and White Ointment in the morning. You wash off the Ointment. No trouble. The results are so satisfactory. Go to your nearest drug store or toilet counter today and get you a package of Black and White Ointment and a bar of Black and White Soap. You can buy both for 30c. You will find that Black and White cleanses the skin more for the same results. If you do not get the complete treatment. A sample, literature and a Black and White Birthday and Dream Book free if you will clip and mail this advertisement in Black and White, Box 1607, Memphis, Tenn.

CHILE MAY ADOPT MEASURE MAKING COAL FIELDS "DRY"

Bill Would Prohibit Sale of All Alcoholic Liquors in Mining District.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Nov. 8.—Coal fields in Southern Chile will become "dry" soon if a provision of an agreement just signed between the miners and operators is enacted into law; and the fields may even become "bone dry" if a measure now before Parliament is adopted. The agreement apparently has settled a long standing controversy between the workers and their employers over questions of wages and hours of work, and says, among other things:

"The representatives of the companies and workmen agree to ask the public authorities to declare the coal region completely dry, prohibiting the introduction and sale of alcoholic drinks. While this measure is being enacted they ask the prohibition of sale of liquor during pay days."

The newspaper, Ultimas Noticias, commenting on the provision, says it is "worthy of note that the prohibition movement in Chile is supported with great strength by labor." The newspaper asks for early enactment of a measure introduced some months ago by Deputy Adrien of the Democratic party, to which a large element of labor belongs, which forbids "the introduction, manufacture, sale or consumption of any kind of distilled or fermented drinks" not only in the coal fields, but in the nitrate regions as well.

The bill has not yet been debated in the chamber.

A significant endorsement of the New Karo by one of the largest maple grove owners in Vermont

Explains why over five million cans of the New Karo were sold last year! A record:—

From the finest maple groves in Vermont and Canada come each year over a thousand tons of the purest and best flavored maple sugar to flavor the New Karo.

The makers of Karo are the world's largest buyers of maple sugar.

Which explains the purity and delicious flavor of the New Karo.

That part of Vermont, near Burlington, is noted for its rich maple syrup and maple sugar.
It supplies much of the sugar used in the New Karo.

A tribute to Karo is the fact that one of the largest maple grove owners in this section regularly orders the New Karo for his employees.

The price of the New Karo is remarkably moderate—economical enough to serve every meal—and costs less than many syrups of similar quality and flavor.

Go to your grocer today and buy a can of the New Karo. Serve it. Compare it for price and flavor with any maple or maple-flavor syrups. If you don't think it's a real treat —your grocer will return your money.

NEGRO SCHOOL BOUGHT MOST CHRISTMAS SEALS

Money Contributed to Be Used in Fighting Tuberculosis Among Their Race.

The Banneker Grammar School for negro children led all the St. Louis public schools Tuesday in purchase of Christmas seals and Santa Claus buttons, with a total of $375. The largest amount collected at any of the public schools, according to returns thus far in, is $100. The children of the negro schools are particularly interested in the seal sale this year because its results will be of a direct benefit to their race, and all money raised in the negro schools as well as in the churches and motion-picture theaters for negroes will be used in anti-tuberculosis work among the negroes in St. Louis.

A resolution adopted Monday by the board of directors of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis pledged the society to a definite program for work among negroes, based upon findings in a survey of tuberculosis conditions here just made by Miss Virginia James, head of the research department of the society. It showed that with one-twelfth of the population of St. Louis negro, there is three times as much tuberculosis among the negroes as among the whites. As negroes are constantly associated with the whites as domestic servants, hotel employees and in numerous other ways, the negro tuberculosis problem is a definite community problem, the report said.

Danger of Infection. This survey also showed that there is much greater danger of infection from a tuberculous negro than from a tuberculous white person, largely because most negroes do not resort to treatment until it is too late and having had no medical advice in the early stages of the disease, usually do not take precautions to safeguard those around them from infection. The survey showed that almost one-fourth of all the persons ill with tuberculosis in St. Louis are negroes; that many more males than females are ill of that disease; that tuberculosis attacks negroes at an earlier age than it does whites and that it attacks males earlier than females; that about one-fourth of all negro females and one-seventh of all negro males, ill of tuberculosis, are under 20 years of age, while only one-eighth of the white females and one-sixteenth of the white males, ill of the disease, are in the same age group. Negro females between birth and 10 years of age are much more susceptible to tuberculosis than are white females of the same age, according to the survey. According to the records in the city Health Department as reported in this survey, 74.8 per cent of all negro females and 22 per cent of all negro males reported ill of tuberculosis, gave domestic or personal service for whites as their occupation, but more than twice as many white persons as negroes are employed as domestics. The findings with regard to the children led the Tuberculosis Society to urge upon the Board of Education the immediate establishment of an open air school for negro children. According to an arrangement between the Board of Education and the Tuberculosis Society, the former is to establish the school, and the latter to maintain it with an appropriation from its last budget.

MARKET HEAVY; U. S. STEEL SETS NEW LOW RECORD

Rails Also Down Several Points and Foreign Exchange Dull; Selling Is on Broad Scale.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:
"Today's stock market displayed a heavy tone all morning, and into the afternoon, all classes of stocks selling off and showing little strength on rallies. Selling was continuous and on a very broad scale, an unusual number of issues appeared on the tape. As the afternoon neared a close, many new low records for the year had been made, among which were United States Steel at 79 1/2, showing a net list of 14 points from the day before. Southern Pacific broke par, selling for 99 1/2, 1 1/2 points down. Of the other shares of the more active issues showed losses of over two points. Money was at 7 per cent all day.

"Dullness characterized the exchange markets. Sterling was firm, selling $2.44, or about yesterday's closing. Of the Continental Exchange, Denmark and Norway continued strong, but the Greek market was demoralized. The drachma was reported to be practically unsalable, quotations around 7 cents being nominal. Silver broke more sharply than recently, the London price at 29 1/2, down 3 1/2 cents below that of yesterday, and the lowest since July 25, 1917. Heavy sales from China and the continent are reported.

"In the commodity markets, little interest was shown in wheat, which opened unchanged at $1.75 and after some fluctuation, sold early in the afternoon for $1.65. Cotton opened slightly firmer on a rally in Liverpool, but weakened later in the day. The March delivery of cotton at 15 1/2 cents at last night's closing.

"Bank of England Shows Recovery. A statement issued by the Bank of England yesterday shows a sharp recovery in reserve ratio, the week's figure being 9 1/2 per cent, as compared with last week's low of 7 1/2, and 11 1/2 for the week ending December 1, 1919. The recovery accentuates the temporary character of last week's decline, which was due to Government borrowings from the bank continuing to remain in circulation. The Bank of Germany, on the other hand, after three weeks of improvement, has lapsed back into inflation. The week's increase in circulation of one and two-thirds billion marks carrying the total to a new high record.

"Too Simple Remedies Sought." "Evidently there are those who still believe that quick and oblique cures may be had for great diseases, and that we can as a nation lift ourselves, in the economic sense, by our boot straps. The resolution introduced in Congress yesterday providing for a postponement of Dec. 15 tax payments must cause thoughtful persons the gravest alarm, because, if passed, a huge increase of the floating debt becomes a necessity, and the Treasury certificates that would have to be issued would increase the money market. Increase in inflation and seriously postpone the day when a real revival of business can begin.

"Similarly the demands of farmers for immediate relief from the present economic crisis betrays a simple trust in Government, and the hope that it would take the form of a further manufacture of credit by the Federal Reserve system, which simply would mean further inflation and inflation.

"The early revival of business should have clearly in mind that the wise policy is to grip down our medicine bravely and not keep begging for postponements.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—For the greater part of the stock exchange session the market continued under the pressure and price was lower with the pronounced weakness in numerous specialties. There were quite a few stocks which made new low records for the year. These were more or less in the line of stocks which were in the previous low points in the third week of November. Still, there was this important difference between the market today and that of three weeks ago—the volume of business as prices went down was very much less. In other words, there was less reaction to the enormous selling wave which had overwhelmed the market in the November decline. Prices yielded more because the buying power was weaker, or rather because there was no effective support attempted than because the selling was heavy.

Weakness continued in some of the motor and motor accessories shares. White Motors felt the effect of intimations that the distribution to shareholders would be reduced in order to equalize the proposed reduction.

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT but EDNA FERBER © 1920...

THEY had always had two morning papers—he his, she hers. The Times. Both Nothing could illustrate more clearly the plan on which Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Buck conducted their married life. There was the morning calm and harmony which comes to two people who are free to digest breakfast and the first page simultaneously, with no "Just let me see the inside sheet, will you, dear?" to mar the day's beginning.

In the days when she had been Mrs. Emma McCheaney, traveling saleswoman for the T. A. Buck Featherloom Petticoat Co., New York, her perusal of the morning's news had been, perforce, a hasty process. There was no need now of haste, but the habit of years still clung. From 8:30 to 8:35 a. m. Emma McCheaney Buck was always in partial eclipse behind the billowing pages of her newspaper. Only the tip of her topmost coil of bright hair was visible. She read swiftly, darting from war news to health hints, from stock market to sport page, and finding something of interest in each. For her there was nothing cryptic in a headline such as "Rudie Slams One Home;" and Do p'd followed by dotted lines and vulgar fractions were to her as easily translated as the Daily Hint From Paris. Here was the photographic eye and the alert brain that can film a column or a page at a glance.

Across the table her husband sat turned slightly sideways in his chair, his paper folded in a tidy oblong. He read down one column, top of the next and down that, seriously and methodically, giving to toast or coffee cup the single-handed and groping attention of one whose interest is elsewhere. The light from the big bay window fell on the printed page and came to his profile. After three years of daily contact with it, Emma still caught herself occasionally gazing with appreciation at that clear-cut profile and the clean, shining line of his hair as it grew away from the temple.

Usually their conversation was comfortably monosyllabic and disjointed, as is the breakfast talk of two people who understand each other. Amicable silence was the rule, broken only by the rustle of paper, the clink of china, an occasional "Toast, dear?" And when Buck, in a low, vibrating tone (slightly muffled by buttered corn muffin) said, "Dogs!" Emma knew he was pursuing the daily scherzchkeit.

Upon this cozy scene conversation cast his gaunt shadow. It was in June, the year of America's great step, that Emma, examining her household, pronounced it fattily degenerate, with complications, and performed upon it a severe and skillful operation. Among the rest:

"One morning paper ought to be enough for any husband and wife who aren't living on a Boffin basis. There'll be one copy of the Times delivered at this house in the future, Mr. Buck. We might match pennies for it, mornings."

"Paper, T. A.," she said, and handed it to him. "You take it, dear."

"Oh, no! No!"

She poured the coffee, trying to keep her gaze away from the tantalizing tail-end of the headline at whose first half she could only guess.

"By Jove, Emma! Listen to this! Pershing says if we have one m—"

"Stop right there! We've become pretty well acquainted in the last three years, T. A. But if you haven't learned that if there's one thing I can't endure, it's being fed across the table with scraps of the day's news, I shall have to consider our marriage a failure."

"Oh, very well. I merely thought you'd be—" "I am. But there's something about having it read to you"

On the second morning, Emma, hurriedly fastening the middle button of her blouse on her way downstairs, collided with her husband, who was shrugging himself into his coat. They continued their way downstairs with considerable dignity and pronounced leisure. The paper lay on the hall table. They reached for it. There was a moment—just the fraction of a minute—when each clutched a corner of it, eyeing the other grimly. They both let go suddenly, as though the paper had burned their fingers. They stared at each other, surprise and horror in their gaze. The paper fell to the floor with a little slap. Both stooped for it, apologetically. Their heads bumped. They staggered back, semi-stunned.

Emma found herself laughing rather wildly. Buck joined in after a moment—a rueful laugh. She was the first to recover.

"That settles it. I'm willing to eat trick bread and whole meat and drink sugarless coffee, but I draw the line at hating my husband for the price of a newspaper subscription. White paper may be scarce, but so are husbands."

They were only two among many millions who, at that time, were playing an amusing and fashionable game called win the war. They did not realize that the game was to develop into a grim and magnificently functioning business to whose demands they would cheerfully sacrifice all that they most treasured.

Of late, Emma had spent less and less time in the offices of the Featherloom company. For more than 10 years that flourishing business, and the career of her son, Jack McCheaney, had been the twin orbits about which her existence had revolved. But Jack McCheaney was a man of family now, with a wife, two babies and an uncanny advertising sense that threatened to put his name on the letterhead of the Raynor Advertising Co. of Chicago. As for the Featherloom factory—it seemed to go of its own momentum. After her marriage to the firm's head, Emma's interest in the business was unflagging.

"Now, look here, Emma," Buck would say. "You've given eno—b to this firm. Play a while. Cut up. Forget you're the 'And Company' in T. A. Buck & Co."

"But I'm so used to it. I'd miss it so. You know what happened that first year of our marriage when I tried to do the Duchess. I don't know how to tell. If you take the Featherlooms away from me I'll degenerate into a Madam Chairman. You'll see."

She might have, too, if the war had not come along and saved her.

By midsummer the workrooms were turning out strange garments, such as gray and khaki flannel shirts, flannellette one-piece pajamas, and woolen bloomers, all intended for the needs of women war workers going abroad.

Emma had dropped into the workroom one day and had picked up a half-finished gray flannel garment. She eyed it critically, her deft fingers manipulating the neckline. A little frown gathered between her eyes.

"Somehow a woman in a flannel shirt always looks as if she had quinsy. It's the collar. They cut them like a man's small size. But a woman's neck is as different from a man's as her collar bone is."

She picked up a piece of flannel and smoothed it on the cutting table. The head designer had looked on in disapproval while her employer's wife had experimented with scraps of cloth, and pins, and chalk, and scissors. But Emma had gone on serenely cutting and snipping and pinning. They made up samples of service shirts with the new neck-hugging collar and submitted them to Miss Nevins, the head of the woman's uniform department at Fyfe & Gordon's. That astute lady had been obliged to listen to scores of canteeners, nurses, secretaries and motor leaguers, who, standing before a long mirror in one of the many fitting rooms, had gazed, frowned, fumbled at collar and topmost button, and said: "But it looks so—so lumpy around the neck."

Miss Kate Nevins' reply to this plaint was: "Oh, when you get your tie on!"

"Perhaps they'll let me wear a turn-down collar."

"Absolutely against regulation. The rules strictly forbid anything but the high, close-fitting collar."

The fair war worker would sigh, mutter something about supposing they'd shoot you at sunrise for wearing a becoming shirt, and order six, grumbling.

By autumn Emma was wearing one of those Featherloom service shirts herself. She bore the title of commandant, with feminine capstans, neutenants and girl workers under her; and her blue uniform, as she herself put it, was so a-jingle with straps, buckles, belts, bars and bolts that when she first put it on she felt like a jail.

She left the house at 8 in the morning now. Dinner time rarely found her back in Sixty-third street. Buck was devoting four evenings a week to the Draft Board. At the time of the second Liberty Loan drive in the autumn he had deserted the Featherlooms for bonds.

One afternoon at 5:30, Emma, on duty bound, espied him walking home up Fifth avenue, on the opposite side of the street. She felt a little pang as she watched the easy, graceful figure swinging its way up the brilliant flag-decked avenue. She turned abruptly and crossed the street, dodging the late afternoon traffic with a sort of expert recklessness. She almost ran after the tall figure that was now a block ahead of her, and walking fast. She caught up with him, matched his stride, and touched his arm lightly.

"I beg your pardon, but aren't you Mr. T. A. Buck?"

"Yes."

"How do you do! I'm Mrs. Buck."

Then they had giggled together, deliciously, and he had put a firm hand on the smartly tailored blue serge sleeve.

"I thought so. That being the case, you're coming home along o' me, young 'ooman."

"Can't do it. I'm on my way to the Ritz to meet a dashing delegation from Serbia. You never saw such gorgeous creatures. All gold and green and red, with swords, and snake-work, and glittering boots. They'd make a musical-comedy soldier look like an undertaker."

There came a queer little look into his eyes. "But this isn't a musical comedy, dear. These men are—Look here, Emma. I want to talk to you. Let's walk home together and have dinner decently in our own dining room. There are things at the office."

"Impossible, Mr. Buck. I'm late now. You know perfectly well there are two vice commandants ready to snatch my shoulderstraps."

"Emma! Emma!"

At his tone the smiling animation of her face was dimmed. "What's gone wrong?"

"Nothing. Everything. At least, nothing that I can discuss with you at the corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fifth street. When does this Serbian thing end? I'll call for you."

"There's no telling. Anyway, the Fannings will drive me home, thanks, dear."

He looked down at her. She was unbelievably girlish and distingue in the blue uniform; a straight, slim figure, topped by an impudent cocked hat. The flannel shirt of workday service was replaced today by a severely smart affair of white silk, silk-collared, stitched, expensively simple. And yet he frowned as he looked.

"Fisk got his exemption papers today." With apparent irrelevance.

"Yes?" She was glancing sharply up and down the thronged street. "Better call me a cab, dear. I'm awfully late. Oh, well, with his wife practically an invalid, and all the expense of the baby's illness, and the funeral— The Ritz, dear. And tell him to hurry." She stepped into the cab, a little nervous frown between her eyes.

But Buck, standing at the curb, seemed bent on delaying her. "Fisk told me the doctor said all she needs is a couple of months at a sanitarium, where she can be bathed and massaged and fed with milk. And if Fisk could go to a camp now he could have a commission in no time. He's had training, you know. He spent his vacation last summer at Plattsburg."

"But he's due on his advance spring trip in two or three weeks, isn't he? . . . I really must hurry, T. A."

"Ritz," said Buck, shortly, to the chauffeur. "And hurry." He turned away abruptly, without a backward glance.

Next morning's breakfast turned out to be all Jock.

A letter from Grace, his wife. Grace McCheaney had been Grace Galt, one of the youngest and cleverest women advertising writers in the profession. When Jock was a cub in the Raynor office she had been turning out compelling copy. They had been married four years. Now Jock ruled a mahogany domain of his own in the Raynor suite overlooking the lake in the great Michigan avenue building. And Grace was saying, "Eat the crust, girlie. It's the crust that makes your hair grow curly."

Emma, uninformed for work, read hasty extracts from Grace's letter. Buck listened in silence.

"You wouldn't know Jock. He's restless, irritable, moody. He wants to get into it. And he ought. But you know I haven't been really husky since Buddy came. Not ill, but the doctor says it will be another six months before I'm myself, really. If I had only myself to think of—how simple! But two kiddies need such a lot of things. I could get a job at Raynor's. They need writers. Jock says, bitterly, that all the worthwhile men have left. Don't think I'm complaining. I'm just trying to see my way clear, and talking to someone who understands, often clears the way."

"Well!" said Emma. And, "Well?" said T. A.

She sat fingering the letter, her breakfast cooling before her. "Of course, Jock wants to get into it. I wish he could. I'd be so proud of him. He'd be beautiful in khaki. But there's work to do right here. And he ought to be willing to wait six months."

"They can't wait six months over there, Emma. They need him now."

"Oh, come, T. A. One man!"

"Multiplied by a million. Look at Fisk. Just such another case. Look at—"

The shrill summons of the telephone cut him short. Emma's head came up alertly. She glanced at her wrist watch and gave a little exclamation of horror.

"That's for me! I'm half an hour late! The first time, too." She was at the telephone a second later, explanatory, apologetic. Then back in the dining room doorway, her cheeks flushed, tugging at her gloves, poised for flight. "Listen, dear—I'll call for you at the office tonight at 5, and we'll walk home together. Wait for me. I may be a few minutes late."

She was off. The front door slammed sharply.

At 5 o'clock Emma left the war to its own devices and dropped in at the loft building in which Featherlooms were born and grew up. Mike, the elevator man, twisted his gray head about at an unbelievable length to gaze appreciatively at the trim, uniformed figure.

"Haven't seen you around fur many the day, Miss Buck."

"Been too busy, Mike."

Mike turned back to face the door. "Well, 'tis a great responsibility, runnin' this war an' all." He stopped at the Featherloom floor and opened the door with his grandest flourish. Emma glanced at him quickly. His face was impassive. She passed into the reception room with a little jingling of buckles and strap hooks.

The work day was almost ended. The display room was empty of buyers. She could see the back of her husband's head in his office. He was busy at his desk.

A stock girl was clearing away the piles of garments that littered tables and chairs. At the window near the door Fisk, the Western territory man, stood talking with O'Brien, city salesman. The two looked around at her approach. O'Brien's face lighted up with admiration. Into Fisk's face there flashed a look so nearly resembling resentment that Emma, curious to know its origin, stopped to chat a moment with the two.

Said O'Brien, the gallant Irishman: "I'm more resigned to war this minute, Mrs. Buck, than I've been since it began."

Emma dimpled, turned to Fisk, stood at attention. Fisk said nothing. His face was unsmiling. "Like my uniform?" Emma asked; and wished, somehow, that she hadn't.

Fisk stared. His eyes had none of the softness of admiration. They were hard, resentful. Suddenly: "Like it! God! I wish I could wear one!" He turned away, abruptly. O'Brien thrust him a sharp look. Then he cleared his throat apologetically.

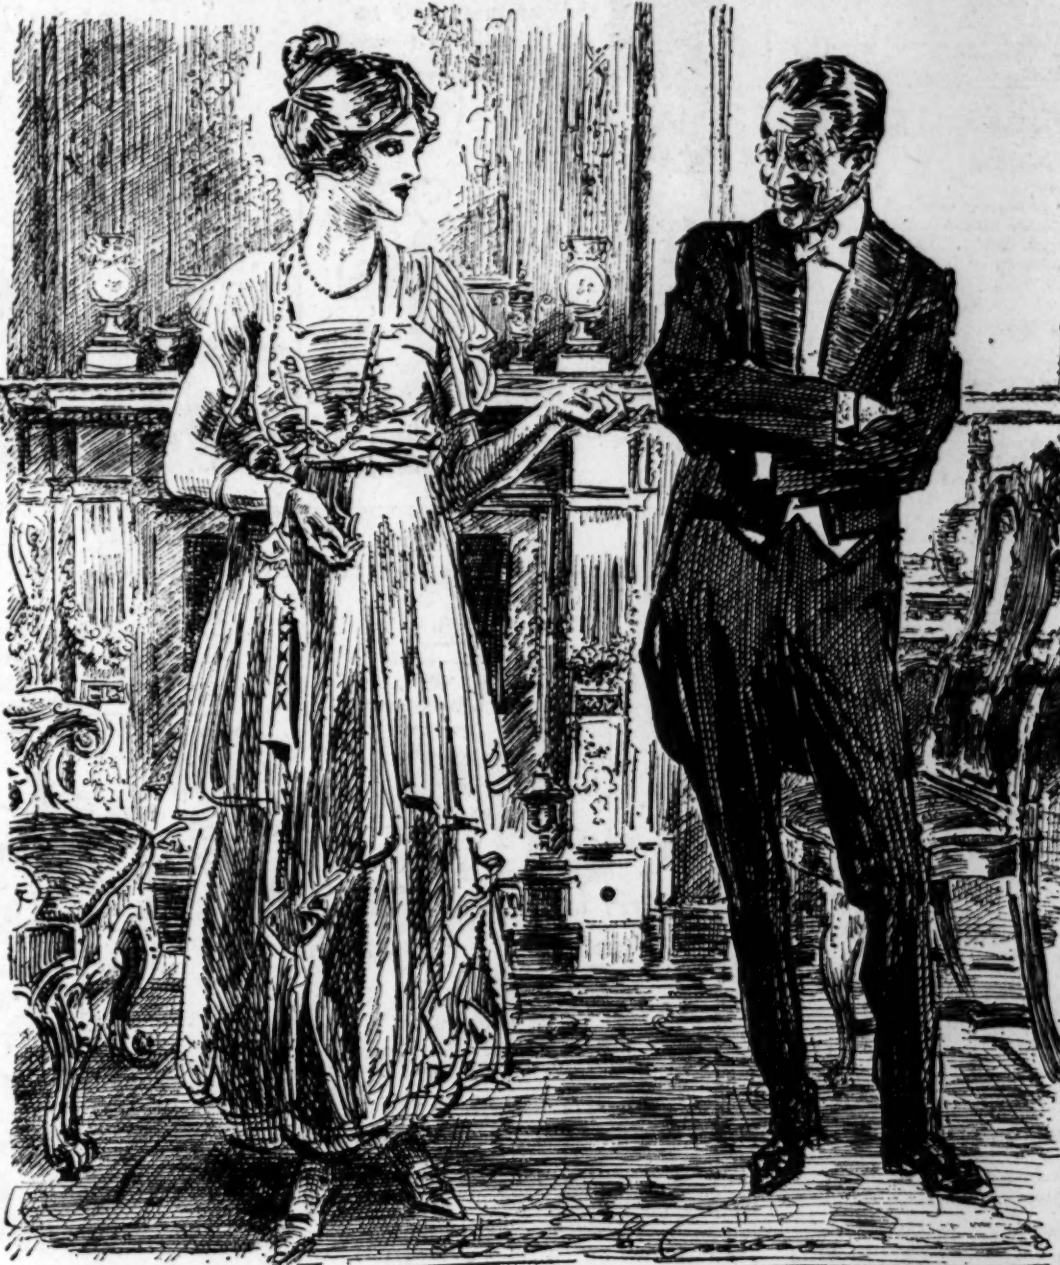

Emma glanced down at her own trim self—at her stitched seams, her tailored lengths, her shining belt and buckles, her gloved hands—and suddenly and unaccountably her pride in them vanished. Something—something—

She wheeled and made for Buck's office, her color high. He looked up, rose, offered her a chair. She felt strangely ill at ease there in the office to which she had given years of her service. The bookkeeper in the glass-enclosed cubbyhole across the little hall smiled and nodded and called through the open door: "My, you're a stranger, Mrs. Buck."

Out in the showroom she saw Fisk standing before a long table. He was ticketing and folding samples of petticoats, pajamas, blouses and nightgowns. His cigar was gripped savagely between his teeth and his eyes squinted, half-closed, through the smoke.

Farmer Brown's Boy Guesses What Is Wrong.

SOMETHING was wrong with him. He took Rusty out of the cage. It was the first time, and he half expected to see Rusty leap away. But Rusty didn't. Instead he petted for his breakfast. It was a good breakfast, a fine breakfast, but Rusty hardly touched it, which was very unusual for him.

SINGLE TRACK MINDS

By Sophie Irene Loeb

A PROMINENT business man makes the following observation:

"There seems to be a new fad among b 'ness people—a new excuse for putting you off. It is the 'single-track mind' idea."

"The other day I was talking to a man about a proposition that I had up with him several times. Finally, in order to get rid of me he said:

"You see, it's like this: I have a single track mind. I have been very busy with other important matters and I haven't been able to give your scheme any consideration whatever. I know only how to complete one job at a time."

"Now this sounds reasonable," said the business man. "But when I learned that he used the same excuse to a number of other people, I came to the conclusion that he had the habit, and I paid no more attention to him."

"Soon he found I wasn't coming any more, and as I knew he would want my proposition, he called me up and asked me why I hadn't been in to see him."

"I answered, 'Well, I was just waiting till your mind got off the single track, or, at least, on a side track, to give me your attention. I don't know whether I can give you the same terms that I had originally planned to give you, but I'll talk it over.'"

"The result of the whole thing, however, was this, he had to wait most double for the thing he wanted because of running on a 'single-track' schedule."

"At any rate, he no longer puts me off on that excuse."

The successful man cannot have a "single-track" mind and be successful.

The man with a single-track mind is he who only does one thing and is largely a routine worker. The single-track mind is even dangerous for such a one. He gets into a groove and when he is confronted with something unfamiliar to him, he is dazed, bewildered and not equal to it.

You have only to look over the history of the big men who did big things, and the ones who did one thing well, usually excelled in others when they put their minds to work on it.

The reason of this is that they use the same energy, the same interest, the same enthusiasm, in one project as in another.

As a result of the resources of a large concern do with a "single-track" mind? Or a General in any battle? The battle in life has many varied tracks in which to run, and you must be able to see more than one track.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE GOLFER'S DEFIANCE.
I have no quarrel with reform;
I know that it would ill behoove me
To gnash my teeth and rage and storm
At others' efforts to improve me.
When Mr. Volstead's law forbade
A further alcoholic diet,
I saved what little stuff I had
And only drank it on the quiet.

I'll not indulge in language blue
Or waste my time in futile croaking.
When in another year or two
I'm ordered to forego my smoking,
I'd not make trouble if I could
Because, as the reformers view it,
They pass these measures for my good
And, anyway, they're going to do it.

But if they take my golf away,
A pleasure I enjoy but one day,
(Because I have no time to play
Around the course except on Sunday)
Although I'm not a man to let
A casual vacation try me,
I'm going to try my damndest yet
To lay those smug old birds a stymie.

I don't need booze; I don't need smokes;
And though I rather hate to lose 'em,
I'll give 'em up, if better folks
Than I declare I mustn't use 'em.
I've been an easy man to drive—
Resembling much dumb driven cattle—
But just as long as I'm alive
I'll not quit golf without a battle.
